Russell Charges Northern Group Instigated Riots

Rips Into Civil Rights Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said Saturday efforts are being made to spark race riots in the South in hopes of winning support for passage of civil rights legislation.

He also called one part of the administration's civil rights measure "a salute-to-Nixon section — an effort to promote the vice president of the United States."

Russell ripped into the legislation after Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) held the floor for more than three hours in the first full-dress move by civil rights advocates to present their case since the debate started two weeks ago.

The Saturday session brought fourth the liveliest debate yet.

Russell, quarterback for Dixie senators opposed to the legislation, said direction for recent Negro demonstrations at lunch counters and other traditionally segregated public services in the South came from New York City.

Russell shouted that a group known as the Congress of Racial Equality advocated mass efforts by young Negroes to get into segregated places.

"They fostered, planned and incited these incidents that could lead to a great tragedy in some cities," Russell told the Senate.

"It demonstrates to me that they were anxious to start a race riot of terrible proportions.

"This is no time to be going down there and trying to promote a race riot. Gentlemen, you are playing with powder and I hope the match won't catch fire to set off a disaster."

The Senate recessed at 5:46 p.m. until noon Monday, when round-the-clock sessions are scheduled to begin.

Much of the afternoon was taken with wrangling over delaying tactics employed by the Southerners. Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC) asked at one point for a quorum call to produce at least half the membership.

After two calls of the roll turned up 51 senators, Thurmond moved that the Senate adjourn. This move was shouted down on a voice vote. Thurmond promptly asked for another quorum call.

The list of senators' names was called twice without producing a quorum. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, then asked that the sergeant at arms be sent out to bring in the absent members. He said he was taking the action so members could "observe the parliamentary shenanigans taking place here."

It took 58 minutes to assemble the necessary 51 senators in this case. Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-

PRINCESS TO WED PHOTOG: Buckingham Palace in London announced that Princess Margaret will marry Anthony Armstrong-Jones, 29, a commoner. Armstrong-Jones is a former society photographer who has taken many pictures of the Royal Family. (NEA Telephoto)

Margaret, Fiance Pose For Pictures

Margaret was careful to hold her hands so that her new engagement ring showed to good advantage. It is a large ruby, set in gold and surrounded by diamonds arranged in the shape of a flower.

Supervising things happily, and getting into some of the pictures herself, was Queen Mother Elizabeth, whose announcement of the engagement Friday night startled and delighted Britain.

The secret had been well kept. Almost no one suspected that the young man who had won recognition as one of Britain's best society photgraphers also had won Margaret's heart.

Margaret and Armstrong-Jones are staying with the Queen Mother over the weekend at the Royal Lodge, a cozy house of stone and stucco about 30 miles west of London where the royal family can hide away.

The only intrusion, by appointment, was by the photographers. For the encounter, which the Princess managed with practiced ease, she wore a belted, two-piece frock of blue.

Armstrong-Jones wore a dark gray, delicately striped lounge suit. The Queen Mother was in powder blue.

First there were pictures inside. Then the Princess and Armstrong-Jones were photographed many times strolling arm-in-arm and holding hands. They walked up the garden path, stood, beside the shrubbery and frolicked with frisky dogs. Then they retired to the seclusion of the Royal Lodge.

The Queen Mother gave no hint of a wedding date in announcing the engagement.

If royal tradition is observed, the ceremony will take place in Westminister Abbey. It is almost certain that a churchman who is an old friend and spiritual adviser to the Princess, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the archbishop of Canterbury, will officiate.

Many other matters of great moment, when a bride is a princess, will have to be considered. No problem of succession arises. Margaret remains a princess, now fourth in line for the throne. But there was a question as to what she is to be called.

In some quarters it was thought that the Queen might confer a title on Armstrong-Jones shortly before the marriage, just as Lt. Philip Mountbatten was made the Duke of Edinburgh before the Queen's own wedding.

The couple planned a quiet Sunday after attending church services in the morning. The princess worships regularly and her fiance also is a communicant of the Church of England.

More Violence Erupts In South, Arrest Over 100

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A young Negro woman was hit with a miniature baseball bat and more than 100 persons arrested Saturday as violence erupted in the South where Negroes are pressing their campaign for equal service at lunch counters.

In Washington, Sen. Richard B Russell (D-Ga) charged efforts are being made to spark Southern race riots in hopes of winning support for passage of pending civil rights legislation.

Montgomery, Ala., was the scene of the racial incident involving the Negro woman, Christine Stovall, about 22.

Police said she was struck on the head by one of about 25 white men who gathered in the down-

Allies Near Accord On Disarm Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allied officials were reported near agreement Saturday on a new three-stage disarmament plan for negotiation with the Soviet Union. But France may block a final Western accord.

Diplomats said the heavy involvement of French military forces in Algeria and France's determination to develop atomic weapons make it difficult for President Charles de Gaulle to accept now disarmament proposals that are agreeable to his allies.

The tentative Western plan is designed to halt the arms race and achieve cutbacks in both conventional and nuclear weapons while preserving at each stage the balance of deterrants between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Each of the superpowers depends for defense on its capacity for mass-production. Under the Western proposal this defensive reliance on deterrent strength would be preserved until an international police force some day took over the job of maintaining peace.

The United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy will open negotiations with the Soviet and four other Communist countries at Geneva March 15.

Western disarmament experts have been meeting here for more than a month to develop proposals for the session. Early next week they hope to know whether these proposals will go into a single Western plan or whether they will have to come up with a Western position statement and let each country propose whatever plan it wishes in line with the generally agreed policy.

A third possibility is that the Western powers may confront the Soviet Union with a single plan but one or another of them may write in reservations with respect to specific provisions.

The planning efforts, which may shift to Paris within a week or so, have been plagued with difficulties. Many of these difficulties have originated in the Eisenhower administration.

Last summer President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter turned over to Charles A. Coolidge, Boston lawyer, the task of reviewing disarmament problems and coming up with recommendations for the next round with the Soviet Union. Coolidge and his aides, drawn from the State and Defense De-

Three Children Die As Fire Destroys Home

WARSAW, N. Y. (AP)—Three children died early Saturday in a fire which destroyed their farm home.

Dead were Connie, 6, James, 5, and Bonnie Stewart, 3. Their mother, Mrs. Albert Stewart, 26, and four other children ranging from 5 months to 7 years escaped and were in Wyoming County Community Hospital. Two children were in serious condition. The father was at work when the fire broke out.

Firemen were unable to reach the two-story, frame house because drifted snow clogged the road. A snow plow later cleared the road and a neighbor took Mrs. Stewart and the surviving children to the hospital.

Find Girl, 13, Carrying Sister's Body, Seeking Funeral Home

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Officers continued efforts Saturday to locate the parents of seven children, one of whom they said died of starvation.

Two policemen found a 13-year-old girl Friday carrying the body of her infant sister. She told them she was looking for a funeral home.

An 8-year-old sister was with the older girl in the freezing weather. Four other children were home.

Detective E. B. Meals said the 13-year-old told him she had saved some food for the infant "but she didn't wake up." The officer said he was told that the older girl had fed her brothers and sisters pie crust for two days.

Meals said the girl told him she had bathed the dead infant, dressed her in fresh clothing and then went out to locate a funeral home.

The detective said the children had been alone since their mother went out 10 days before to buy groceries and did not return. A woman picked up by police in the area last Monday was committed to a state mental hospital but has refused to give her name.

The father has not been seen since Feb. 13, Meals said.

Officers who picked up the woman did not contact the Youth Bureau. Youth Bureau officer Gerald Emmett said he had gone to the home several times but that his aid was refused.

The older girl said she had not sought help because her parents had instructed her not to do so.

Meals said all six children were placed in a county children's home.

Many Children Can't Read Well Educator Claims

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — One of the most pressing problems in American education is that too many children just don't know how to read well, a noted educator declared Saturday.

"There are schools in the United States where 40 per cent of the pupils in the ninth grade are reading at the sixth-grade level, or below," Dr. James B. Conant told a national convention of high school principals. "And if the children can't read properly, how are they to be properly educated?"

Conant, now studying the American junior high school as a follow-up to his best-selling report on the U.S. high school, said there is a great spread in the reading ability of junior high pupils. Some, he said, are young adults and read that way, others are children who read like children.

The former Harvard president called for a longer school day and stiffer courses than are now found in most junior highs.

The school day, Conant suggested, should run seven 50-minute periods a day instead of the usual six, possibly starting at 8:30 a.m. and ending about 3:30 p.m.

His proposed schedule would include four optional periods a week designed to fill the needs of the individual students.

Sen. Symington Stumps Illinois, Lambastes GOP

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), unannounced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, took his scathing attack on the Republican administration to a second northern Illinois city Saturday night.

Symington accused the GOP of "squandering billions with one hand while stifling America's destiny with the other" and of mismanaging public finances "to the point where the interest on public debt is now running to 9.5 billion dollars compared with 5.9 billion dollars as recently as 1952, a rise of 60 per cent."

Symington's remarks came at a Democratic dinner in Danville. Earlier, he addressed a similar meeting at a luncheon in Peoria.

Sunday he will speak in three more Illinois cities — Rockford, Elgin and Morris. He has scheduled a similar tour through southern Illinois next weekend.

Before leaving Chicago Saturday morning, Symington met with Mayor Richard J. Daley, who is also Cook County Democratic chairman.

Daley has been noncommittal toward the leading contenders, announced and otherwise, for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Springfield Nets 20,000 Starlings

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Between 10,000 and 20,000 starlings were gassed Friday night by Illinois and federal officials in the first operation of a gigantic net trap set here for nearly a half million of the birds.

The world's largest net, 35 feet high and 60 feet long, was the trap.

Five 1,000 watt lamps in a tent at the end of the funnel-like net were the bait.

Firecrackers and noisemakers startled the starlings from their thousands of tree roosts on the city's east side. Twenty beaters helped shoo them into the net.

The birds began to stream toward the lights but these were turned off too soon to obtain maximum effect, officials said. Tent flaps were closed on the birds which could not turn back.

The anti-starling campaign will continue on suitable moonless nights, officials said.

Thousands Welcome Him To Argentina

BARILOCHE, Argentina (AP) — President Eisenhower took a break Saturday from the hot weather and teeming crowds that have attended his South American tour. He flew to this picture postcard resort in the Andes for a weekend rest and said he was glad to be here.

For the opportunity to rest and relaxation and "for the warmth of your welcome I am most grateful," Eisenhower told officials and citizenry of Bariloche, a Swiss model settlement in a lake studded mountain setting.

Full facilities for fishing, golfing, sightseeing, talking and just loafing were available at this halfway point on Eisenhower's four-nation goodwill trip.

The temperature was a balmy 66.

Eisenhower flew to Bariloche in his Columbine III with Argentina's President Arturo Frondizi after another tumultuous reception from Argentines on the Atlantic at Mar del Plata. The two Presidents will have a chance to meet privately here for Camp David type conferences such as Eisenhower conducted with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev last September.

About 10,000 persons welcomed Eisenhower at the Bariloche Airport, on a sandy plateau 15 miles out of town. Their reception was enthusiastic, though numerically a miniature of the greetings hundreds of thousands had given him in Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo, Buenos Aires and Mar del Plata.

Eisenhower told them he expects to hold private talks here with Frondizi. These may be held Sunday.

There was a troop review, Gov. Edgardo Castello of Rio Negro Province delivered a brief welcoming speech, and Mayor Osiris Sacido handed Eisenhower the keys to Bariloche.

Then Eisenhower flew 30 miles in a U.S. Marine helicopter over lake waters and tree-covered mountain slopes to the Lia-Llao Hote.

Somebody who evidently still likes ex-dictator Juan D. Peron painted big signs reading 'Viva Peron" early Saturday morning on the paved road between Bariloche and the airport. Local authorities quickly obliterated them.

Dangerous Storm Whips Plains, May Lash Midwest Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A new winter storm flung heavy snow, sleet and cold temperatures across the Plains Saturday while the Northeast struggled to shake off a thickening blanket of white.

The storm which earlier in the week gave the Ohio Valley its worst lashing of the winter before moving into New England lingered in upstate New York. It buried communities along Lake Ontario in up to 15 inches of snow.

Winds heaped the new-fallen snow into traffic-paralyzing drifts in western New York.

The Weather Bureau in Kansas City termed the latest outbreak on the Plains dangerous. Heavy snow warnings were in effect in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Hazardous driving was the rule from northern Arizona eastward into southwestern Missouri. A three-inch snow covering grew heavier in western and southern Kansas. Sleet and freezing rain glazed northern Texas and southern Oklahoma.

Temperatures remained below freezing at midday deep in the Plains. The Dakotas failed to warm much higher than zero. Even in the far South, the mercury remained in the 50s during the afternoon.

February's latest helping of winter grew out of a storm system centered over Colorado. The Weather Bureau said it appeared the slow-moving storm would roll eastward on a path similar to the one that pasted the Ohio Valley this week.

Snow squalls and high winds of Lake Ontario closed roads in sections of four western New York counties. A freight train was stalled by drifts, and a passenger train stopped at Watertown, N. Y., and sent passengers ahead by taxicab. Highways remained open.

Three children died in a farmhouse fire at Warsaw, N. Y., when firemen were unable to get through drifts.

Official Says He Tried To Avert Airliner Crash

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland (AP)—A Shannon Airport official told an inquest jury Saturday night he desperately tried to avert the crash of an Italian airliner that plunged into a nearby cemetery with the loss of 30 lives.

The crash death toll mounted from 29 to 30 Saturday night with the death in a Limerick hospital of Mrs. Longina Lisi, about 23.

Alitalia Airline officials had said previously she was married a year ago in Italy and was flying to join her husband, John Lisi, of 375 E. 160th St., the Bronx, New York City. Her husband was at her bedside when she died.

The disclosure by the airport official that he tried to avert the crash came a few hours after one of the survivors aaid in a TV interview he saw a fire in a port engine just before the big DC7C airliner dived to destruction.

Jim Rockett, airport control officer, told the 12-man jury that the New York-bound plane appeared to take off normally early Friday after a stopover on a flight from Rome.

"After about a mile, I estimated the plane's height at 300 feet," Rockett said. "Then it took a sudden, sharp turn to the left, losing about 50 feet. I considered that abnormal.

"Immediately I advised the pilot that he was too low. There was no reply. And then the plane plunged and crashed."

Shannon experts estimated the plane should have been at about 1,000 feet when Rockett saw it at 300 feet. There was no technical testimony as to why the plane was so low or what might have caused the crash. The inquest was adjourned until identification of victims is completed.

Eighteen of the 22 survivors, nearly all Italians, were in critical condition in hospitals at Limerick and Ennis. Among them was Rocco Cologgi, listed as from North Tonawanda, N.Y.

Confusion still surrounded the identities of most of the dead. Many were mangled in the plane's fiery crash. Most of the dead were Americans or Italians.

GERMAN INSIGNIA, BRITISH UNIFORM DON'T MIX

LONDON (AP) — The German iron cross and the British uniform don't mix. Learn Apalachin Meet Discussed Narcotics, Mafia

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal narcotics official said Saturday two-year wall of silence surrounding the notorious Apalachin underworld gathering has been pierced at least.

The meeting dealt primarily with enforcing "an edict for all members to cease and desist from trafficking in narcotics," the official said.

He added that the 60-odd delegates also discussed 'the Mafia taking over gambling in Nevada and the Cuban gambling operation." The Mafia is an international underworld society spawned many years ago in Sicily. It reputedly rules a vast world vice empire.

The official, Charles Siragusa, a field supervisor for the Federal Narcotics Bureau and himself of Sicilian descent, said young elements in the crime syndicate ignored the edict to lay off narcotics "because of the fantastic profits made in the insidious racket.

He told a meeting of law enforcement officers that reprisals for those who disobeyed the order were "subsequently manifested by the murders of a few top ranking gangsters who chose to violate the edict of their criminal bosses."

Many of those who attended the upstate Apalachin meeting, at the plush private estate of the late Joseph L. Barbara Sr., have been jailed for giving evasive answers about what authorities termed the real reason for it.

Almost to a man they claimed that they had merely dropped by to see a sick friend — Barbara. He died later of a heart condition.

Siragusa said agents of his bureau wrested the secrets of the Nov. 14, 1957, parley through penetration of underworld groups and, in some cases, conversations with those actually present.

Did Chessman Stay Ruin Brown's Political Future?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown says his decision to grant a 60-day reprive to condemned sex terrorist Caryl Chessman may have doomed his own political career.

He told of his fears for his political future in a copyrighted interview with James Peck in the Los Angeles Examiner.

"Very frankly," Peck quotes Brown as saying, "I didn't want to ruin all of my program—everything that has to be done and everything that has been done—by reason of a man like Chessman. But still I had to resolve what my conscience told me to do."

Brown was asked whether he may have given up his chances for the vice presidency of the United States. He replied:

"More than that, it might mean the end of my political career."

Brown added that if the State Legislature refuses to abolish capital punishment at its coming session he will grant no further mercy to Chessman.

SOVIET WAR HERO DIES

MOSCOW (AP)—Tass reported Saturday the death of Col. Gen. Oka Gorodovikov, commander of Soviet cavalry units in the civil war of 1918-1922. During World II, he trained and commanded cavalry units. He was 80, a hero of the Soviet Union and holder of three orders of Lenin and other decorations.

Woman Talks Bandit Out Of Gun, Tricks Him Into Arrest

DETROIT (AP)—Mary Braden, welder's wife and mother of two children, was "never so nervous in my life."

During six frightening hours as a prisoner in her home Saturday she calmed a fidgety self-proclaimed holdup man, talked him out of his gun, and tricked him into his arrest.

James H. Smith, 25, gun in hand, burst into Mrs. Braden's home shortly before 2 a.m.

She said he boasted that shortly beforehand he had held up the crowded Conn-Warr Tavern nearby on Detroit's East Side and left one dead and one injured pursuer.

Manfred Lorenz, 30, father of two, was shot and killed in unarmed pursuit of the holdup man and two alleged accomplices, both also captured.

Another bar patron, John E. Grey, 27, was shot in the abdomen in the same pursuit. He is in Saratoga General hospital reported in serious condition.

The trio's escape car couldn't get out of heavy snow at a curb, police said, and the three fled on foot.

Mrs. Braden and her husband, Eugene, 37, a Chrysler Corp. factory worker, were having coffee before retiring after he had come home from his late-shift job.

There was a sudden knock on the door and Smith, gun in hand, entered.

They got his confidence. Mrs. Braden prepared him bacon and eggs. He began to doze.

At last she told him "I don't like that gun around. I've got two boys sleeping in that room over there."

He handed over the gun to her. She pretended to put it in a dresser but tucked it under her girdle.

Finally, Mrs. Braden played her trump. She told Smith she had to go to the store to get milk for the boys' breakfast. It was then about 7 a.m.

Smith agreed.

Mrs. Braden hurried a block and a half to an outside telephone booth, called police. Twelve scout cars surrounded the home. Police rushed in and Smith gave up meekly.

Shortly after the tavern holdup and shootings, police flushed John E. Bauman, 19, and Arthur L. Burgess, 20, from beneath a house porch where they had been hiding. With Smith, they were held for investigation of armed robbery and murder.

Cuba supplies about one-third the U.S. sugar total (see Newschart) on a quota system established during the depression. The system was designed to protect the U.S. sugar industry, assure battle prices and promote purchase of U.S. goods—in Cuba especially.

Adding CHARM to YOUR Home

by Edna C. Gustine

THE MELLOW CHARM OF PINE

One of the reasons for the present popularity of pine is its adaptability. It's warm . . . it's livable . . . it blends well with other styles, and is at home with almost any decor.

Pine furniture has long been the favorite choice of lovers of Americana. Many of the most treasured heirlooms and collectors' items in our land today were fashioned by our forefathers from native pine.

Most of the air of homey cheerfulness and inviting hospitality in the living room sketched above is due to the golden-toned pine furniture and its complementary background, the beautifully finished wood that smart upholstery fabrics show up importantly against the soft green of the painted wood walls. Small-print provincial wallpaper has been used on one wall to introduce variety and a feeling of movement. Note how the old fashioned clock and trivits on fireplace wall add to the charm of the provincial setting.

Here is a cozy room with the nostalgic charm of yesterday that is perfectly suited to the informal mood of today's casual living . . . a room that is as practical as it is pretty—a pleasure to live in.

Whether you're buying a whole houseful of furniture or just one small piece, you're sure to find just what you want in our wide assortment of lovely home furnishings. Every piece we offer you has been hand-picked for value, style, and durability. Do come in and shop assured.

Joan H. Roberts

Joan Harber Roberts Writes For Christian Science Monitor Daily

In two recent issues of the Christian Science Monitor are articles written by a former Jacksonville resident, Joan Harber Roberts, graduate of Jacksonville High School and Illinois College and formerly employed in the news department of the Journal Courier.

Joan and her husband, Robert H Roberts, live at Highland Park, Ill. Mrs. Roberts is associated with the Christian Science Monitor, working under Godfrey Sperling, chief of the Central News Bureau in Chicago. Mrs. Roberts is the daughter of Mrs. Freida Harber of this city.

Mr. Roberts has also had articles published in the Monitor on his experiences and trips to various European countries and cities, while stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army.

Publicizes Fair

The first of Mrs. Roberts's articles dealt with her experiences while employed in the publicity department of the Illinois State Fair at Springfield where she went to work immediately after graduating from College.

She was assigned to 'cover the animals' after admitting to her supervisor she knew a Holstein from a Jersey. (this gem of knowledge she acquired from an uncle who instructed the then youthful girl on bovine identity to amuse her during long rides through the countryside).

The light and cleverly phrased paragraphs made excellent feature reading covering experiences of a young reporter fresh out of College.

The former Jacksonville girl's second article, Gymnastics with Names, was a familar complaint and in first person takes the reader through many experiences with a 'this has happened to me' reaction.

The copy told of the author's confusion after her marriage in associating the names of her in-laws with their faces. The trouble magnified as she found each was known by a series of different names: double Christian; nicknames; initials and relating ties.

She closed the article with the confession that she was also called many names by her family and friends: Joan, Jo, Joey, Jody, Little Noise, Joanie and Butch!

TOPSY TURVY

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—Passers-by sometimes get the impression a tree is growing upside down in Dr. T. Edwin O'Brien's yard. The family explains that it isn't even a tree, but an euonymus vine planted by Louis G. Merritt, the home's former owner. Because of a kind of "trunk" and downward pointing "branches," the vine gives the appearance of an upside down tree.

HOW ABOUT FRIENDS INSIDE?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — William Saied is quitting as assistant Oklahoma County attorney to go into private practice—but he plans to keep a sharp eye on 16 small brass keys he's handed out the past two years.

Saied gave each young first offender who received a suspended sentence one of the keys, and told them:

"This key will fit the front door of the McAlester prison. If you bring them back and are convicted again it will let you in. It is up to you to keep this key as a reminder to stay out of trouble."

So far, none of the 16 keys has been returned, he said, adding, "I intend to keep checking those boys to find out how they turn out."

Carole Sue Griswold Bride At Rockbridge

The Rockbridge Methodist Church was the scene of a lovely late winter wedding Friday evening, February 26, when Miss Carole Sue Griswold became the bride of Larry Lee Bettis.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Griswold, of Rockbridge. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bettis of Greenfield.

Reverend Ronald Bula performed the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with baskets of white flowers and palms. Mrs. Herschel Williams presided at the organ and accompanied Ben Strode, who sang "Because" and "Oh, Promise Me" during the nuptial prelude, and "The Lord's Prayer" during the exchange of vows.

Miss Cheryl Griswold, the bride's niece, and Miss Sue Stotler, attired in identical pink nylon and lace dresses, with matching headbands and pink wrist corsages, lighted the candles.

Miss Mary Stotler, of Rockbridge, served as maid of honor. The bride's sister, Mrs. Virginia Dawdy of Jacksonville, was bridesmaid. They wore similar floor length gowns with identical long-sleeved lace jackets and velvet and flower headpieces.

Wears Lace And Tulle

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a traditional gown of Chantilly lace with tulle over satin. The snug fitting bodice featured a flattering neckline of modified scallop cut lace, accented with pearls and sequins. The long lace sleeves tapered to points over the hands. The very bouffant skirt was layers of ruffled nylon tulle with three wide lace handclipped scallop inserts. Wide lace panels enhanced the front and back.

Her fingertip veil of pure silk bridal illusion was held in place by a delicate lace headpiece jeweled with tiny pearls and sequins. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and streamers of white lace. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, the groom's gift to his bride.

Gary Bettis served his brother as best man. And Terry Ribble, of Hettick, was groomsman. William Griswold and Everett Griswold, brothers of the bride, were ushers. Men in the wedding party wore pink carnation boutonieres.

Reception At Church

A reception was held in the church social rooms immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Donald Wright and Mrs. Everett Griswold served cake, and Mrs. William Griswold and Mrs. Bob Garner presided at the punch bowl, with Mrs. Gerald Stotler, Mrs. Vernon Naugle, Miss Jean Meneley, and Mrs. Glenn Maguire assisting.

Misses Judy and Peggy Bettis, the groom's sisters, registered the guests, and Mrs. Carl Wright and Miss Sandra Clark were in charge of the gifts.

When the couple left for their honeymoon, Mrs. Bettis was wearing a white wool lace dress with tangerine accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Both graduated from the Greenfield high school in 1959. They will make their home in Woodson. He is employed at Capps Clothing factory in Jacksonville.

He Learns While He Earns

WORDS SHE WILL NEVER HEAR...

A great deal is being said and printed these days about juvenile delinquency. Many prominent educators, judges, statesmen, clergymen, and others are saying that a better use of leisure time by young people could greatly reduce the delinquency. One neighbor of Johnny Green's said this: "Kids don't know how to work these days." Another commented: "Some teenagers don't grow up; they just sit."

There may be much truth in what these people say. But the comments which they are making are not directed to the mother of Johnny Green. For Johnny is a newspaperboy. He has a business of his own—and work to do. He keeps busy—building his route, keeping accurate records, figuring out better ways to serve his customers. He's learning to accept responsibility as a way of everyday living. He's using his leisure time to grow up!

with a NEWSPAPER BUSINESS of his own and his parents behind him a GREAT FUTURE lies ahead

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — Marketings of butcher hogs for the week here were the smallest with one exception since September and prices advanced as much as $1.00 a hundredweight.

Prices trended higher on four of the five days but the sharpest advance was posted on Friday when snow covered highways curtailed receipts rather sharply. On that day, buyers paid up to $15.25 for best grades and weights, the highest since Aug. 26.

Slaughter steer prices worked steadily higher on a cattle supply 7 per cent under the previous week and the smallest for a five-day week since August.

At the extreme, the market was $1.50 higher with good to prime over 1,300 lbs bringing the full advance. Other grades were steady to weak.

On Wednesday, a load of 1,284 prime brought $30.50, the highest price here since July 15, and some others sold up to $30.00.

A good shipper demand in the sheep market boosted prices for slaughter lambs 25 to 50 cents. Ewes were little changed. Offerings were down about 33 per cent from the previous week.

Khrushchev Ties Strings To Loans To Indonesia

BOGOR, Indonesia (AP) —Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev agreed to extend long term credits, up to 250 million dollars, to Indonesia on condition it keeps out of any Western alliance, high level sources said Saturday.

Khrushchev and President Sukarno will sign the credit agreement, a cultural agreement and a joint statement in Sukarno's white - columned summer palace Sunday.

The Soviets have shown concern about Sukarno's increasingly friendly relations with the United States, a highly placed Indonesian sources said, noting "they seem to have a very real fear we might commit ourselves in some way to the Western bloc."

Sukarno has reiterated Indonesia's neutralist position repeatedly since Khrushchev arrived 10 days ago. Indonesians say there is little chance he would abandon it.

One informant said neither the economic agreement nor the joint statement will include any stipulation that Indonesia maintain its neutralism and stay out of SEATO or any anti-Communist group.

Soviet credits will apply to developing steel mills, agricultural projects and nonferrous metals, chemical and textile industries. An Indonesian source said the possibility of future Soviet military aid was discussed unofficially but nothing concrete was requested or proposed.

Foreign Minister Subandrio told newsmen the only official condition attached to the loan was: "It has to be paid back."

POLISH REPORT ON ALCOHOLISM

VIENNA (AP) — Polish papers received here report alcoholism is Poland's most frequent cause of suicide and the country of 25 million or so is spending 10 million dollars (equivalent) daily on hard liquor. They said nearly a third of the 1,564 suicides last year were chronic alcoholics, and liquor consumption is on the increase despite higher prices.

GRAIN FUTURES DROP WITH THREE HITTING SEASON'S LOWS

By GIL MAYOR
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market continued its downward trend generally this week with three commodities hitting new low prices for the season.

Of the three, corn was the only one to muster any rallying srength and post net gains for the period. Eight contracts tumbled into the low ground. They were March, May and July corn, March and May rye and March, May and July soybeans.

Rye, with loses running to more than three cents a bushel, led the declines and finished at the bottoms for the week on the two nearby deliveries.

For the market as a whole, price changes were somewhat broader than for the past few weeks. Wheat was off more than two cents on old crop month, soybeans down almost three cents. The reversal in corn carried it to gains of a cent at the best.

Selling was described principally as liquidation although it included an increasing amount of short selling when it appeared demand was rather limited even at the lower levels.

Scattered mill buying of wheat was noted from time to time but it showed no signs of developing into general demand for long term flour commitments. Export business was light, too, until Poland came in late in the week for about three million bushels.

Meanwhile, the trade heard reports of tightening commercial wheat stocks and one brokerage firm estimated that about 80 million bushels will have to be redeemed from the government loan or dealers will have to obtain equal amounts from the Commodity Credit Corp. to meet demands before the end of the crop year.

Weakness in soybean oil, still at its lowest levels in 20 years, and soybean meal was the major bearish influence in the soybean pit. Crushings for January were almost three million bushels less than for the same month a year ago but still slightly ahead for the first four months of the crop year.

Wheat finished the week 1 - 2¼ cents a bushel lower than a week ago, March $1.97⅞; corn ¼ lower to 1 cent higher, March $1.12-11⅛; oats ¼ higher to ¼ lower, March 73⅜; rye ¼-⅜ lower, March $1.21⅛; soybeans unchanged to 2¼ lower, March $2.09¾-⅞.

Doctor Testifies Lynn Injured By Fall Not Beating

BOSTON (AP) — Willem van Rie's defense offered medical testimony Saturday that he did not beat Lynn Kauffman senseless in her shipboard cabin last Sept. 18. Once again, the possibility of her suicide was put before an all-male jury trying the Dutch radio operator for his life.

Dr. Milton Helpern, chief medical examiner of New York, testified for the defense that in his opinion the vivacious 23-year-old American divorcee was not injured in a beating, but in a 40-foot fall into the waters of Boston Harbor after which she drowned.

On Cross - examination, Asst. Dist. Atty. John F. McAuliffe asked: "You did not exclude the deceased's being thrown into the water did you?"

"I did not mean to imply that I knew how the fall took place," replied the stocky pathologist.

McAuliffe referred Dr. Helpern to each of the injuries Miss Kauffman suffered. The doctor admitted most of them, taken alone, could have been inflicted by a blow of the fist. But he added that collectively they formed a pattern inconsistent with a beating.

"If the deceased had struck the water and the water alone, could she have gotten all these injuries?" McAuliffe asked at one point.

'I don't know if the water alone could do it," Dr. Helpern replied. "She could get many of her injuries from the water alone, not all of her injuries."

"No, I don't think that follows at all," Dr. Helpern protested.

He raised the possibility Miss Kauffman's falling body struck some object on the way down, or in the water. The defense has suggested in that connection the ship's side or gangplank lashed below Lynn's cabin.

The trial then recessed, with the defense expected to rest its case Monday. This could put the decision of Van Rie's fate up to the jury about midweek.

OLD BORDEN MANSION TO BE SOLD

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Ellen Borden Stevenson, former wife of Adlai Stevenson, said Saturday that she, her mother and her sister are selling the old homestead—a landmark mansion on the Lake Shore Drive section known as the Gold Coast.

The buyer, International Rolling Mill Products Corp., said the deal will give the company a full block of Lake Shore Drive frontage between Bellevue and Cedar streets. No price was disclosed.

Sellers, besides Mrs. Stevenson, are Mrs. Ralph Hines, and Mrs. Ellen Waller Borden Carpenter, mother of the other two. Mrs. Stevenson conducted an art club in the French chateau-style building from 1953 to 1958.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS

CHICAGO (AP) — Estimated livestock receipts for Monday are 8,000 hogs, 21,000 cattle and 3,000 sheep.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in 1960, the stock market has managed to string together two straight weekly advances.

The atmosphere in Wall Street was a bit more confident and speculative this week, a relief from the air of gloom which has pervaded many brokerage offices during the long decline from the early January highs.

Demand was quite brisk electronics and specially situated issues which held forth the lure of big capital gains. Among the blue chips, however, the improvement on average was quite narrow.

For the market as a whole, the gain was irregular. Rails were down on average. The latest carloadings report showed a decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .10—the minimum advance—to 218.60.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 3.55 to 632.00.

The trading week was shortened to four days by the market closing Monday because of Washington's birthday. So the overall volume of 12,689,645 shares was not comparable with the preceding week's 17,290,350.

During the week, gainers outnumbered losers by the slight margin of 623 to 595. Since the market was still not much above the year's lows, new highs for 1959-'60 totaled only 31 as against 71 new lows.

Most active issue on the New York Stock Exchange was NAFI Corp., up 4⅝ at 33⅜ on 369,800 shares.

Most active on the American Stock Exchange was Dynamics Corp. of America, off ⅛ at 12¾ on 107,200 shares.

U.S. government bonds were down sharply this week. Corporates milled inconclusively to wind up mostly higher.

Trading was lighter than usual, even taking into account the four-day week because of Washington's birthday. Trading declined to $23,267,000 par value from $30,743,500 the previous five-day week. A year ago volume was $27,033,000.

Ike, Frondizi Confer, Relax In Resort Town

Streets of Bariloche and nearby roads were decorated with bunting and newly bought American flags, some so new they showed 50 stars.

Hundreds of thousands of Argentine vacationers, many in bathing suits, turned out to cheer Eisenhower on his visit Saturday morning to Mar del Plata.

Eisenhower paid a 2½-hour visit to Mar del Plata, 230 miles southeast of Buenos Aires.

Security precautions had tightened as a result of incidental demonstrations in the capital Friday by Peronist and left-wing Socialist groups—the one for ex-dictator Juan D. Peron and the other against the United States. But all was harmony in Mar del Plata, a town of 350,000 swelled by the influx of summer vacationers to more than a million.

Throngs of flag-waving Argentines lined the ocean front drive leading to the Hotel Provincial, where a dozen gas-filled balloons held U.S. and Argentine flags aloft in warm, humid air.

At the hotel Eisenhower received a key to Mar del Plata, called "The Pearl of the Atlantic." He expressed regret he could not stay longer.

At a 20-minute reception in his honor, he drank orange juice and ate some pudding.

Standing up well under a schedule that kept him on the go for from 15 to 18 hours a day, Eisenhower had to leave then.

As the 69-year-old U.S. chief of state and Frondizi, 51, headed to the airport in an open limousine, a small group broke through lines of blue-jacketed police. They crowded alongside the car to shake Eisenhower's hand. He shook hands with several as the car continued to move.

A woman handed Eisenhower a small Argentine flag. He held it high and waved it, drawing a burst of cheers.

Giant Inflatable Sphere Sent Up In Sky 225 Miles

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 130-pound bundle of plastic sheeting shot 225 miles into the sky Saturday night and blossomed into a giant sphere as tall as a 10-story building.

The forerunner of balloon-type satellites designed to serve as passive reflectors of radio waves, the Project Scho sphere was launched from Wallops Island, Va., at 6:21 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

As in the case of sister spheres sent aloft Oct. 28 and Jan. 16, this was was visible over the eastern seaboard as a brilliant star, largest and brightest in the evening sky.

Where clouds did not obscure it, it could be seen from Maine to South Carolina—and 500 miles inland.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration launched the mylar object, folded into a round magnesium contaner 26½ inches in diameter, by means of a two-stage rocket 32½ feet tall.

Sent upward after darkness had descended, the rocket became visible when its vapor trail struck sunlight far above the earth's shadow, and described a path up into the sky.

Secret British Intelligence Data Stolen From Ship

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The captain of a British freighter berthed here told police Saturday that top-secret British naval intelligence documents to be opened only in case of war were stolen from his vessel.

The FBI and U.S. Naval Intelligence were notified at once.

Loss of the papers is so grave that the entire British naval code may have to be changed, detectives were told by Capt. F. M. Williamson, master of the Wharanui.

A tall man in an old army field jacket was seen aboard the vessel by members of the crew, police said. The man told crewmen he was looking for electrical equipment placed on the Wharanui by mistake.

The papers were in a sealed and locked canvas bag in the captain's cabin safe. Williamson said he had orders to open the sealed documents only if war were declared on England while the ship was at sea.

The FBI Saturday night said it was keeping in touch with Newark police to determine whether there was a violation within FBI jurisdiction.

The ship was due to sail at 9 a.m. Sunday after completing loading operations.

Big O Hits 37 As Cincinnati Triumphs, 97-76

CINCINNATI (AP)—Oscar Robertson sank 37 points, picking up another major college mark Saturday night and helping top-ranked Cincinnati defeat Wichita 97-76.

The Bearcats set up a 10-point halftime lead, stretched it to 20 points early in the second half and coasted in to victory in the Missouri Valley Conference game.

Robertson's first field goal of the night—90 seconds after the game started — broke Elgin Baylor's old major college mark of 956 field goals.

Robertson added a dozen more field goals, equalled a season high of 25 rebounds and had 8 assists.

It was the Bearcats' 22nd victory in 23 games.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Coach Vergil Fletcher's Collinsville Kahoks downed Wood River's Oilers last week 52-40 and it marked the 100th Collinsville-Wood River high basketball game. The Collinsville teams own 79 wins against 21 losses in games with Wood River and that game gave the Kahoks the undisputed conference championship, seventh under Coach Fletcher in fourteen years at Collinsville high and 15th title for the Collinsville high school.

Coach Joe Adam of Canton high wants it known around the State that Coach John Thiel of Galesburg's Silver Streaks went to him after the Canton win over the Knox County five 70-69 in Canton on Feb. 12 and said "Congratulations, your boys played a dandy ball game." He immediately went to the Galesburg high dressing room and every player on the powerful Silver Streak team went to the Canton dressing room and congratulated the Canton players on their win and sat with them and talked for several minutes. In several papers the fans got the idea that Galesburg were poor sports in losing an important Illini conference game at Canton high and Coach Joe Adams thinks different.

Bridgeport high won the North Egypt title and its ace is Bernie Gray who scored 346 points in 14 games. It marked the first time in 32 years for Bridgeport's Bulldogs to take home the top honors in that fine conference. It appears that Bridgeport will be playing a sectional tourney for the first time since losing to Zeigler in 1936. Oblong eliminated the Bulldogs in the Sectional tournament last year 60-45 in the regional championship game.

Coach Sherman Hafner at Mt. Sterling high is shooting for his third consecutive Regional title in three years at Brown County high. Two years ago his team won the title by beating Beardstown in the championship game of the regional 52-39 and last year the Hornets downed Pleasant Hill 57-45 to advance to the Sectional grind. Charles Ketner, a Jacksonville native, coached Mt. Sterling to their other regional championship in 1944 by beating Rushville 35-32.

Players who will miss the Regional tourneys this week include Mel Patton of Belleville and Curt Hayes of Sparta. The Belleville ace is injured and Hayes has a siege of the mumps. Canton high will play at Lincoln (East St. Louis) high next season for the first time and appear at Alton the same weekend. The 1961-62 season will find the "Little Giants" of Coach Joe Adam taking a two game trip to Northern Illinois. Coach Sammy Miranda's Kankakee Kays might be the host to one of these games planned by Canton high officials.

Bradlley Wallops Tulsa, 81-60

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Bradley, the nation's third-ranked basketball team, scored an 81-60 victory over Tulsa Saturday night in Missouri Valley Conference competition.

The triumph was the 22nd in 24 games for Bradley and left the Braves in second place in league play behind Cincinnati, the nation's No. 1 team.

Sophomore Chet Walker led the Bradley attack with 34 points while Dave Voss copped scoring honors for the visitors with 20.

Bradley led 35-33 after a close first half but iced the game early in the second half when Tulsa failed to score a field goal in the first seven minutes and the Braves shot out to a 51-34 advantage.

Russell Charges Northern Group Instigated Riots

NY) called this a "silly performance." He said 30 senators want to vote on a civil rights bill and 20 are keeping them from it.

In New York, James Robinson, executive secretary of the Council of Racial Equality, said CORE has been developing the "sit-in" technique against segregation since 1942.

He said CORE was not involved in the start of the recent student demonstrations but was called in by local groups for advice on how to carry out nonviolent demonstrations, in which the organization specializes.

Two field workers have been aiding the movement in North and South Carolina and three Virginia cities, he said, but CORE was not called into the Chattanooga situation, where violence occurred. Groups advised by CORE workers, he said, have stuck to nonviolent demonstrations despite all provocation.

Robinson suggested to Sen. Russell "that he might well train some of his segregationist supporters in the application of the Christian ethic in the South."

Senate leaders have fixed Monday for the start of round-the-clock sessions to try to break the filibuster tactics which Russell and other Southern Democrats have been waging against the administration bill to help guarantee Negro voting rights.

If that fails, a attempt may be made to use the Senate's cloture rule which permits further debate to be choked off by the votes of a two-thirds majority.

Sen. Clair Engle (D-Calif) said in a statement he is prepared to do this and added, "I am sure we have the power to invoke cloture and shut off debate."

Javits had told the Senate earlier that he and other civil rights advocates "are not being blinded by zeal and passion."

"We believe there are serious wrongs that need to be corrected," he said. He cited what he called mass disenfranchisement of Negroes in the South and resistance to the Supreme Court's school desegregation decision.

Backing up Javits, Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) said supporters of civil rights measures are not trying to punish the South.

Russell said the demonstrations at segregated lunch counters in the South have alarmed some Southern Negro leaders by the threats of violence.

Social status can't be achieved by litigation or legislation, he said, "but the NAACP is trying it." The initials are those of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

In turning his fire on Nixon, Russell referred to the activities of a commission headed by the vice president to eliminate racial discrimination in the hiring of workers by government contractors.

One part of the administration's civil rights bill—the part Russell called "a salute-to-Nixon section"—would establish a similar commission by law. The one Nixon heads was set up by presidential order.

Russell said that only two days after the Senate took up the civil rights bill "a terrific controversy" about job bias on federal projects here in Washington suddenly broke out and the Nixon commission sprang into action.

'The vice president even came back to Washington," Russell shouted, his arms waving. "We hadn't seen him around here for weeks."

The Georgian said the activities of the commission were only one of several peculiar things he said began to happen about the time the Senate launched into its battle over civil rights legislation.

He said the National Organization of Women for Equality in Education, headed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, was formally set up on the day the debate started.

Referring to this as another pressure group, Russell said its purpose is "to force a comingling of white and colored children in schools all over the nation now."

ALLIES NEAR ACCORD ON DISARM PLAN

partments, were expected to devise a set of U.S. proposals.

Instead, it is reported on excellent authority that the Coolidge group failed to produce a program. In fact, the State Department found the top secret Coolidge report negative on the whole disarmament problem and much more concerned with security. It raised many questions about long-established U.S. disarmament policy.

This left the United States without a plan of action when discussions with the Allies began here last month. The State and Defense Departments quickly became entangled in old quarrels.

So as far as the United States is concerned the posibility of joining in a Western disarmament plan is wide open. What Washington did lose by fumbling was the opportunity to lead Western planning. The leadership role fell instead to the British government which entered the talks here with a well developed disarmament program.

HEY! COME BACK HERE

Don't be that way Dave could be what John Bourn is thinking as Dave Giger of the Saukees stalks away with the ball in his possession. Bourn didn't stay in this position long as he amassed 15 points for the Crimsons in their 1959-60 finale. Pittsfield won its 23rd game in 25 starts. Giger also had a good night with 20 points.

Saukees Outplay Jacks In 2nd Half. Win 85-73

By STAN SPOTTS

For the first time in JHS Bowl history and quite possibly in the school's history, a Crimson five failed to win a home game during the regular season and it was Coach Toby Smith's Pittsfield Saukees halting any last-ditch bid Saturday night as the Crimsons fell to the tune of 85-73.

The contest marked the end of the regular campaign for both squads and it was the Saukees getting the nod for the first time in years over a JHS aggregation. Pittsfield displayed too much poise in its outshooting attack and its accuracy at the charity line was more than the Crimsons could cope with.

Pittsfield took advantage of the 26 fouls against the losers to sink 27 of 37 charity tosses. Jacksonville was making its final home appearance, the 13th of the year, before the regional playoffs, and the number was an unlucky one as JHS' dismal season has been — winning only three and losing 18. The three victories came on the road at Athens, Bethalto and Beardstown.

Garner 23rd Victory

Saturday night's victory was Pittsfield's 23rd against only two setbacks but it took a torrid 29-point third quarter for the Saukees to turn the tide of battle.

Leading by only one at halftime, 36-36, the Saukees began their winning bid after the Jacks had pulled within one point, 40-41, with 6:02 left in the third stanza. Bruce Saxbury, the Saukees' scoring leader with 23 points, hit two straight buckets with 5:45 and 5:18 remaining, to push Pittsfield into a 45-41 spread. Jacksonville made one final threat to catch up when forward John Bourn contributed three points to slice the deficit to 48-44, but Pittsfield turned on the scoring punch to pull ahead by 10 points in the next two minutes of play, 58-48, and control a 65-52 lead after three quarters.

During the deciding frame, Saxbury tossed in 10 points, Bob Patton eight, Dave Giger four, Bob Cantwell one and Gary Curtis six. This was enough for Pittsfield to increase its lead to 20 points plus when Patton hit two free throws with 5:24 left in the game for a 73-52 margin.

The Crimsons managed to cut the lead to 10 points with a minute left to play, 81-71, but the winners couldn't be denied as time eventually ran out.

Good 1st Half

Jacksonville played inspired ball for the first two minutes of the initial quarter, jumping off to a 6-1 margin when Pittsfield didn't hit a field goal for 2:15. But JHS cooled off and Pittsfield scored 13 straight points while holding the Crimsons scoreless for 5:43 to take a 14-6 lead. Pittsfield's pressing defense was responsible for Jacksonville's downfall as the Crimsons resolved to bad passes and several violations which enabled Pittsfield to command a 16-10 lead after eight minutes of play.

In the second quarter, the losers caught up on Sweeney's rebound layup with 6:06 remaining but then Gary Curtis scored six straight points in 15 seconds to keep Pittsfield on top for the remainder of the quarter even though the Crimsons came within one point of the lead on three different occasions, 23-22, 34-33, and 36-35 on Ken Norton's tally with two seconds remaining before intermission.

The Crimsons knotted the score twice in the first minute and a half of the third quarter, 37-37, and 39-all on baskets by Spangenberg and Mentler. But Pittsfield led the rest of the way when guard Bob Patton sank two free throws with 6:41 remaining to be played.

Tom Christison, John Bourn and Ken Norton highlighted Jacksonville's attack with many of their tallies coming off a fast break, which kept the Crimsons in the game for the opening 18 minutes of play. Christison topped the output with 19 points, 14 of them coming in the first half.

Smith's aggregation didn't rely too much on a short game—instead they chose to work the ball in for an easy layup or let their outshooters pop away. The latter style proved effective as Saxbury made 23, Giger hit 20 and Patton and Curtis each collected 17 tallies.

Blueboys End Cage Season Losing, 93-78

LEBANON — A hot hitting McKendree five downed the IC Blueboys Saturday in a non-conference tilt on the McKendree boards that saw the victors hang up their 18th win of the season, over 8 blemishes, 93-78.

The host McKendree club started the game off with a bang as they rang up 7 of the first eight attempts from the field. A little over half-way through the first half, the Hilltoppers found themselves down to the tune of 20-6, and then with five minutes remaining in the opening half, McKendree ran the score up to 38-17 over the Merrismen. With time running out, the Blueboys took the back seat 47-30.

IC was able to put through 13 of 38 attempts in the first half of play for a .342 situation, but McKendree made 19 of 28 for a respectable .678 reading. The hot percentage for the host five was largely due to the fine shooting of Bill Roberts who racked up 22 markers for the contest.

With the opening of the second half, the Blueboys tried hard to match the McKendree five, but as the hosts moved into the session they continued to pump the ball in as they ran up 93 points. For the game the host team shot .603 by putting in 35 baskets out of an attempted 58 with the IC five falling somewhat below that with 29 of 79 or a .367 percentage.

Bill Roberts was the high man for the winners, and tied for high honors with IC's Bill Schildman who also racked up 22 markers. Fine support was also given the Blueboys from Terry Ransom as he made the first 4 shots for the IC team, and Bill Burmeier who made 12 points for the evening. Senior guard, Larry Brown did a good job of controlling the ball and came through with 10 markers for the Blueboys, but the Hilltoppers were not strong enough to overcome the hot shooting McKendree five as they accepted the defeat by a 93-78 score.

JUST A MINUTE PLEASE

Bob Cantwell (15) of the Pittsfield team looks as though he's trying to get his balance while sitting atop Ken Norton Saturday night as the Soukees won, 85-73. The loss was Jacksonville's 18th this season and its 13th at home without a victory.

REASONS FOR PRETZELS' SUCCESS

Two of the very big reasons for New Berlin's impressive 22 wins in 23 starts has been Bob Bond (partially hidden by the net) and Carl Compardo (right). Compardo, a two year veteran in his junior year, has ripped the nets for 16 points a game while Bond, who is the rebounding sparkplug with 15 a game, is second in the individual scoring race with a 15.3 game mark.

New Berlin meets Franklin, a team the Pretzels beat in the windup of the season Friday, in the regional opener at 7:00 p.m. Tuesday, March 1.

Likely Contenders In State Championship

By FREDERIC WOLDT
Sports Writer, Waukegan News-Sun

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — A year ago, the Bulldogs of Waukegan High parlayed a fast-break offense and a pressing defense into a fourth place finish in the Illinois High School Assn. Basketball tournament.

Any resemblance between that team and the current crop of Bulldogs is, as the saying goes, purely coincidental. Gone is coach Chuck Reid and four of the five tournament starters, including all-state guard Dick Nixon. Gone is the race-horse style of ball and the full-court press. Only the results are the same.

Jack Miller, who took over as head coach after serving two years as sophomore mentor, has installed a pattern type offense and a shifting man-to-man defense at Waukegan. While last year's quintet tried to overwhelm the opposition with speed and superior fire power, the present team pins its hopes of winning on a sound defense.

To support Miller's theory that a team is less likely to have an off night defensively than offensively, Waukegan has allowed 19 opponents a shade over 50 points a game in compiling its 14-5 season record.

High point in an already successful season came in the Pontiac Holiday tournament where Waukegan defeated Bradley, Clinton, LaSalle - Peru and Proviso East on the way to winning the title.

Favorable pairings and the home court advantage make Waukegan the choice to cop its own regional tournament, although Highland Park, Evanston and Zion-Benton are expected to offer stiff competition.

Looking beyond this to the Arlington Heights sectional Waukegan will have to get by Elgin, the probable Crystal Lake regional winner, to earn a super-sectional berth.

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP) — Tall and rugged with unlimited potential—but slightly unpredictable—is a thumbnail sketch of the 1959-60 Galesburg team, which has been ranked in the top three all season and No. 1 part of the time.

This week, Galesburg again moved to the top in the AP's weekly poll measuring state high school cage teams.

Coach John Thiel's Silver Streaks went to the state tourney last year as favorites, but were upset in the semifinals by West Aurora. This time, the Streaks would like to go all the way and feel they have a good chance of doing so.

In fact, Coach Thiel thinks his stalwarts are capable of bringing home the coveted title, even without the services of celebrated Lawrence (Bumpy) Nixon, 6-foot-7 All-America prepster. Nixon will become 19 and, therefore, immediately ineligible following the regional tournament.

The Streaks have compiled a 17-2 record to date and have completely overwhelmed most of their opponents. Oddly enough, they sometimes are unimpressive and still win by sizable margins against formidable foes.

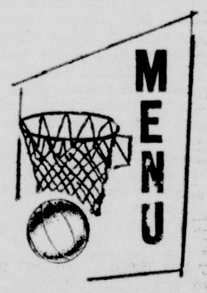

Probably the Streaks' peak effort thus far came last Saturday night when they overpowered highly touted Richwoods of Peoria 74-38. Stellar defensive play highlighted this game with Richwoods limited to seven field goals. This triumph gave the Streaks the Illini Conference title with a 6-1 league mark.

Galesburg's only two losses of the season came in road encounters at Macomb and Canton.

Instead of a regular starting five, the Streaks have six players who are used alternatingly in starting berths. This group often is termed the "super six" by the press and fans.

In the front line with Bumpy Nixon are his brother, Lincoln Nixon (6-4), and Bob Coe (6-4½). Backcourt regulars are Ralph Cannon (6-4) and Jeff Sandburg (6-2) and Ed Havens (6-2). They also have excellent bench strength with Jim Arnold (6-2½), Gary Bruington (5-8) and Kenny Kimbrough (5-8). Kenny is brother of the famed Elbert and Albert Kimbrough twins, now playing football at Northwestern University.

Galesburg has made 17 trips to the Sweet Sixteen, three of them under Thiel. Only once has Thiel failed to take the team to the state finals in his four years as head GHS mentor. His over-all record to date is 114 victories and 22 defeats.

NO CONSOLATION HONORS

Jack Watkins and Tom Long of the JHS squad didn't receive a chance to wrestle for third place in the IHSA State Championship finals at Champaign Saturday. Their opponents, who decisioned the two Crimsons in the second round Friday, failed to get by their semifinal foes Saturday and they wrestled for consolation honors. If they had won, they would have advanced and Watkins and Long would've received a shot at 3rd place honors.

FRIDAY RESULTS

Ohio State Clinches Big Ten Crown, 93-68

COLUMBIS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio State's Buckeyes clinched their first Big Ten basketball championship in 10 years Saturday night with a 93-68 victory over Wisconsin.

The second-ranked Bucks, undefeated in conference competition, rushed to their 12th straight Big Ten triumph, 13th consecutive win over-all and 20th in 22 games this season.

It was the sixth clearcut league title for the NCAA tournament-bound Buckeyes, who have engagements with Indiana and Minnesota remaining on the schedule.

A hectic first half produced five ties and saw the lead change hands no fewer than 10 times.

The Buckeyes scored seven straight markers in the final minute to open a 43-35 halftime advantage.

Wisconsin closed the gap to 47-45 with four minutes gone in the second half but the Bucks quickly moved to a 57-49 lead. The winners got their offense in high gear then.

Lewis Topples MacMurray, 85-78

FREEPORT — A cold Highlander team dropped their last contest of the season Saturday night to Lewis College on the Flyers' own court, 85-78, giving the vctors their 16th win of the season. Earlier in the season, the MacMurray five had defeated the Flyers by 14 points, but sparked by Bob Kennedy, the Flyers were out for and got their revenge.

The Lewis five started the game with hit shooting and took a quick lead in the first half of play as they led 32-15 with around eight minutes remaining in the opening session. However, in the last five minutes of the canto the Highlanders began to come into their own and were able so pull to within 5 points of the end of the first half with the score reading 38-33.

With the opening of the second half the Mac-men looked better and stayed in the game as they tied the tilt at 40-all with 17 minutes left to play. An all out battle for the lead followed with the contest being tied 51-51 with 12 minutes remaining, 59-59 with 9 minutes left, and then the Lewis College team taking the lead by 4, 68-64, with 3 minutes left in the game. Gary Little left the game via fouls at the 5 minute mark, and then three other Highlanders fouled out as Price, McCarty and Hohenberger left in the next two minutes. With around 2 minutes left to play the Mac-men found themselves down by 9, and with 4 of the first 5 out of the running the comeback trail was rugged, and the overall decision went to the Flyers 85-78.

Kennedy held high scoring laurels for the game with 32, but the Highlanders had a more evenly balanced scoring attack as 4 of 8 men hit the double figure column. Senior Jerry Lace gave a fine showing as he completed his college basketball career with 13 markers, and the other three high men were Gary Little with 19, Roy Hahnfeld with 18, and Marv Hohenberger with 11.

In the percentage department both squads knotted the charity line reading at 73%, but Lewis outshot Mac with 45% from the floor. Overall the Highlanders hit 35%, with a bad showing of 21% in the first half drawing them down.

Tidewell Hits 41 Points In 72-65 Win For Wolves

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) —John Tidwell scored 41 points to set a new individual Michigan scoring record as the Wolverines ended an 11-game Big Ten losing streak by stunning Michigan State 72-65 here Saturday night.

Tidwell's total erased the old mark of 38 set last year by M. C. Burton. It also broke the Yost Fieldhouse scoring mark of 39 set by Indiana's Don Schlundt in 1953.

The victory was the first of the year in the conference for Michigan after it lost its first 11 starts to set an all-time losing record.

The Spartans, defending Big Ten champions, now have a 5-8 loop record.

After Michigan State took a 34-33 halftime lead, Tidwell slammed in three quick baskets and gave Michigan a one-point lead with 16 minutes left. The two teams battled on even terms for the next 10 minutes before Michigan grabbed the lead for good.

Tidwell scored 15 of Michigan's last 21 points.

The Spartans' two scoring aces, Horace Walker and Lance Olson, who scored 18 and 16 points respectively, both fouled out in the hectic closing minutes.

Konrads, Fraser Lead Assault On World Records

By GEORGE TAIT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — John Konrads and Dawn Fraser led the assault as Australia's amazing swimmers shattered five more world records Saturday night in the climax of their National championships.

In the eight days of the meet, which also served as Olympic trials, 12 world marks were bettered —five by Konrads, five by Miss Fraser and two by butterfly specialist, Neville Hayes.

Saturday night Konrads, 17-year-old Latvian immigrant, cut 17.7 seconds off his record in the 1,650-yard and 1,500-meter freestyle with 17 minutes, 11 seconds.

Miss Fraser, 22, Olympic 100-meter champion, did the 220 yards and 200 meters in 2 minutes, 11.6 seconds, which is 2.1 seconds below her pervious world's best for the distances.

Hayes sped the 110-yard men's butterfly in 63 seconds, two-tenths of a second better than the listed mark held by Jim Jecko, the Yale man from Bethesda, Md. Last week Hayes beat the mark for the 220-yard butterfly with 2:17.9.

A week ago Konrads bettered world records for both the 440 yards and 400 meters freestyle with 4 minutes, 15.9 seconds. Last Tuesday he beat his own 200-yard mark with 2:01.6.

Miss Fraser, an Adelaide clerk, beat out John's 15-year-old sister, Ilsa, in the 220. Ilsa, holder of six world records, was second in 2:18.2.

Miss Fraser previously had bettered records in the 110-yard butterfly, 1:10.8, and the 110-yard and 100-meter freestyle, 60.2 seconds. John Devitt won the 110 yard freestyle in 55.4 seconds — three tenths of a second off his world mark.

Veteran American League umpires who will be missing during the 1960 season are Ed Rommel and Bill Summers. Both retired after last season.

Minnesota Carpenter Scores Two Goals To Give U.S. Hockey Win In 3-2 Thriller Over Russians

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Billy Christian, a 145-pound Minnesota carpenter, hammered across two goals—the last in the final minutes — Saturday for a 3-2 victory over Russia which moved the U.S. ice hockey team within a breath of the Olympic championship.

The 21-year-old Warroad, Minn., scrapper scored a goal late in the second period to tie the defending champions, a 2-2, then added the clincher amid a wild uproar with 4:59 to play in the third.

Never before has the United States beat Russia in hockey. Now only Czechoslovakia Sunday, on the games' final day, stands between the once lightly - regarded American team and the title.

Jack McCrtan of St. Paul, Minn., hero of America's triumph over Canada earlier, again was a stalwart in front of the American nets, holding off Russian charges time and again.

It was the fourth straight victory in the championship round robin for the Americans, who never have won an Olympic hockey title.

In other developments on the Olympic front:

Russia backed down on its protest against Sweden in the women's 15 kilometer ski relay race after seeing movies that exonerated Irma Johansson of interfering with the Soviet's Radia Eroshina.

Kurt Johannesen, sturdy Norwegian carpenter, broke the 16-minute barrier and slashed 46 seconds off the world record to win the 10,000 meter (6.214 miles) speed skating event in 15:46.6.

Kalevi Hamalainen, 28, lean Finnish shop foreman, won the 50 kilometer (31.069 miles) ski race in 2 hours, 59 minutes, 6.3 seconds.

A warm sun drew more than 25,000 to the valley as the brilliant international competition drew to a close.

Russia has these games securely won. On the basis of the unofficial tabulation, the Soviets have 158½ to 69½ for Sweden, which moved into second place Saturday ahead of the Unied States with 61.

The United States has already made a better showing than it did at the games in Italy four years ago when the Americans were fifth with 54½ points and two gold medals.

In the hockey tournament, the United States has a spotless record and meets an average Czech team, which it beat in the preliminary round, in the final game. Canada has one loss — to the United States — and Russia has Saturday's defeat and a previous 2-2 tie with Canada against it.

Bill Cleary, Boston insurance man, opened the scoring in the fast, hard-played game by darting down the right side of the rink and slamming in the puck from 25 feet out in 4:04 of the first period. The play started with a pass from his brother, Bob.

The Russians tied it up 1-1 a minute later and then went ahead midway in the opening period.

Indiana Stops Minnesota, 78-74

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana University's hurryin' Hoosiers, disregarding the fact they were left at the post in the Big Ten basketball race, turned in a 78-74 victory over Minnesota Saturday — their ninth straight in the league since dropping their first three.

Walt Bellamy, 6-foot-10½ inch Indiana junior, was high scorer with 26 after getting 42 in his last appearance Monday night at Illinois.

Minnesota, which missed a chance to take second place from the Hoosiers, pulled into a 50-50 tie after trailing 45-51 at the half. Indiana took command again on two free throws by Bellamy and a pair by Herbie Lee.

Palmer Clings To Texas Open Lead

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Arnold Palmer maintained a tight hold on first place in the $20,000 Texas Open Saturday with a 5-under-par 67 that gave him 201 for 54 holes.

Palmer, the Ligonier, Pa., star who is leading the money-winning parade along the winter tour, pushed through a misting rain and chill temperatures for a 4-stroke bulge over Frank Stranahan, the Crystal River, Fla., campaigner.

Stranahan had a 4-under-par 68 but lost a stroke to Palmer, who started the third round with a 3-stroke lead.

Doug Ford of Crystal River, Fla., posted a 69 to move into third place with 208.

The third round of the tournament, being played over the 6,729-yard Ft. Sam Houston Course, was marked by an 18-stroke penalty against one of the contenders for high money — Paul Farmer of Sacramento, Calif.

Farmer changed putters for the second nine and was penalized two strokes a hole for having 15 clubs in his bag. He fired a 70 and would have stood at 213 but for the penalty. His 88 about eliminated him from any money at all.

Farmer said the rule specified if a club became unfit in the natural course of play it could be substituted. He said some shellac came off the back of the club, making it unfit for play in his opinion. Tournament Supervisor Harvy Raynor ruled otherwise.

Palmer increased his lead in the first nine holes Saturday when he had a 3-under par 33 and Stranahan a 34. And he maintained the 4-stroke bulge.

Wes Ellis Jr. of West Caldwell, N.J., the defending Texas Open champion, had a 71 Saturday and fell from third place to fourth with 209. In fifth place was Rex Faxter of Ft. Sam Houston, San Antonio, with 211.

Bally Ache Moves Into Derby Picture

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Edgehill Farm's Bally Ache moved up in the Kentucky Derby picture Saturday with a smashing triumph in the $143,200 Flamingo Stakes, first big test for derby age colts this season.

Bally Ache ran the mile and an eighth in 1:48 flat, one second slower than the record set by Bold Ruler in 1957, and won by 3¾ lengths over Windfield Farms' Victoria Park, the 6 - 5 favorite.

Elkcam Stable's Keenation was third and Cain Hoy Stable's All Hands fourth in the field of a dozen three-year-olds.

Bally Ache, second choice in the betting, paid $7.80, $3.30 and $2.90.

Bally Ache, a bay son of Bally Dan, is owned by Leonard D. Fruchtman of Toledo, Ohio.

Bally Ache won five stakes last year in 16 starts and finished second in six others. He earned $303,477 as a two-year-old and owner Fruchtman picked up $90,880 for his Flamingo victory. He now has earned $429,027.

Wildcats Shade Purdue, 68-66

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) —Northwestern's Willie Jones hit a 10-foot jump shot with two seconds to play, and the Wildcats edged Purdue 68-66 Saturday night in a Big Ten basketball game.

Purdue, 75-70 winner at Northwestern a week ago, was left with a 6-7 league record and the Wildcats improved their mark to 7-5.

Northwestern, down 36-31 at the half, worked up a 56-52 lead with 10 minutes to go, but three of its starters were carrying four personal fouls.

The visitors froze the ball, forcing Purdue fouls, and finally won by sinking 26 of 33 free throws. Three Dischinger of Purdue, Big Ten scoring leader, got 25 points. Jones was high for Northwestern with 21.

Illinois Halts Iowa, 85-70, Behind Jackson

Former Edwardsville Star Nets 32 Points

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Mannie Jackson pumped in 32 points to lead Illinois to a 85-70 Big Ten basketball victory over Iowa Saturday. Illinois led most of the way, holding a 43-35 halftime margin.

The triumph gave Illinois a 6-6 conference record and left Iowa with a 5-8 mark. Jackson's point harvest included 15 field goals.

The closest the game after the halftime was early in the second half when the Hawkeyes trimmed their deficit to 43-37, on a basket by Don Nelson.

Most of the rest of the way, the Illini held the lead by from 10 to 17 points, zooming ahead 65-48 with 10 minutes left.

The Illini shot at an even 50 per cent from the floor, although at halftime they had only a 42 per cent record. The first half ended with each club owning 15 field goals, but the Illini hit 13 of 18 free throws for their halftime margin.

Iowa shot 34 per cent from the field, winding up with 14 more shots for the game, but 6 fewer baskets than Illinois.

The Hawkeyes were paced by Mike Heitman, squatty 5-8 senior, who tallied 21 points. He scored 6 baskets and 9-for-9 free throws, all of his charity shots coming in the second half.

Jackson's 15 field goals mainly were scored from the side. He had 28 field shots for a 54 per cent average. Jackson converted his only 2 free throws.

Iowa outrebounded Illinois 47 to 40, but the top individual rebounders were Illinois' Vern Altemeyer with 13 and Govoner Vaughn with 12.

Iowa took the lead in the early stages at 4-0 and 9-7, but the Illini moved ahead for keeps at 12-9 on a three-point play by Lee Frandsen, a Davenport, Iowa, lad.

Frandsen and Vaughn each scored 15 points for Illini runner-up honors.

ROCKETS HAVE THREE SPARKPLUGS IN ORBIT

Curtis, a clever passer and deadly shot from anywhere on the court, is setting the Rocket scoring pace with a game mark of 14.7. The junior guard is a great play-maker and a fine competitor.

Shanle (left) and Trutter also sport fine averages in the scoring and rebounding departments. Trutter carries a 12.5 game mark and averages 11 rebounds a game. Shanle is third in individual scoring with a 10.1 average but tops all Rocket rebounders with 14 per game.

Routt ended its card a week ago Friday with a victory over Farmersville to boost its season's record to 23-4, second only to New Berlin's overall mark. Curtis produced his season's high in this contest with 29 points besides doing all the other things that make him a ballplayers' ballplayer.

Pressure Falls Heaviest On Collinsville Among Contenders In Regionals

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Pressure falls heaviest on Collinsville among highly rated contenders in the 60 downstate regional tournaments which start Monday as the second phase of the Illinois high school basketball title chase.

The first phase ended Saturday when the last of 44 district tourney champions, the 'Little Davids," were chosen to join the 437 larger downstate schools in regionals.

Thirty-four regionals get under way Monday. Twenty-six more, including Galesburg's, begin Tuesday.

All conclude by Friday and the 60 winners step out in 15 downstate sectional meets March 9-11. Chicago picks its public school champion simultaneously for the upstate entry.

Then in the March 15 supersections and the March 18-19 finals at Champaign, the remaining "Sweet Sixteen" competitors shoot for the state crown which Springfield High's Senators seek to retain from 1959.

Collinsville Ottawa and Pinckneyville embark Monday on Regional play, with Collinsville's Kahoks generally conceded one of the toughest fields. Galesburg, in a Tuesday beginning in its own tourney, tests its fortunes against relatively light opposition to start.

The Kahoks, beaten only by Litchfield and Edwardsville, take their stand in the same bracket with the latter club. The opposite bracket is loaded with potential spoilers like Alton and Granite City.

Litchfield has bright prospects in the Carlinville affair.

Once-beaten Pinckneyville enjoys a light car in first games but has a possible pitfall in Sparta in the lower bracket. Sparta gave the Pincks their single defeat but received sharp repayment later.

Ottawa's Pirates may tackle their highest regional hurdle first. Serena, a twice beaten "Little David" lines up in the upper bracket, with the Pirates. The lower bracket lists teams that gave Ottawa no trouble before.

Barrington edged Zion-Benton 82-80.

West Frankfort avenged two previous losses to Herrin, winning 49-45.

Thirty-two "Little Davids" were crowned in district tournaments. Forty-four of these were held this week to choose the cream of 249 smaller schools to join the 437 "Goliaths" already slated for regional competition starting Monday.

Although the districts were scheduled for completion Friday, weather forced putting off final decisions in 12 of them until Saturday.

Undefeated Bureau led the troop of district winners home, stretching its wins to 28 by stopping Depue 80-70.

Other twice-beaten outfits which sewed up titles are Geneva, Annawan, Dupo, Serena and Windsor. Toluca, with three defeats, won its own meet. Shabbona, nicked rarely, walked off with the Hinckley title, halting the host 70-69.

Danville Schlarman is bracketed opposite Danville in their hometown meet. Schlarman has been beaten only twice, by Kankakee and Champaign. Danville is a rugged team, better than its record.

Peoria, Decatur and Springfields all feature intense hometown rivalry.

Peoria Manual stacks up well against its backyard foes but can recall tight games with Peoria Central and Spalding, needing an overtime to subdue the latter. Manual lost five but won its last dozen.

Stephen Decatur also has a town full of capable opponents but met and defeated only Lakeview. Two losses mar Decatur's record, still the strongest contender in a field including MacArthur and Eisenhower.

Springfield's Senators count on a sticky defense but must be wary of three other Springfield teams and some neighborhood darkhorses.

Regional debuts of Rock Island and LaSalle-Peru were overshadowed by Friday defeats like Waukegan's.

Alleman of Rock Island, conqueror of the Rocks in an overtime Friday, stand in the same regional. So do Moline, East Moline and Erie.

LaSalle-Peru enters the Princeton tourney. This is studded with St.Bede of Peru, a victor Tuesday over LaSalle, the host team, and Bureau, "Little David" undefeated in 28 games.

Bridgeport, beaten only by Flora, has Robinson as a dogged competitor to overcome in the Bridgeport arena.

The Crystal Lake regional boasts Elgin, the big eight titlist, and Harvard, a small school with winning exploits that captured northeastern attention.

Elgin, one of the few teams downstate to play Chicago Marshall, considered a prime contender for the state crown if its surpasses the Chicago field, fell 15 points short of Marshall in early December.

SUCCESS STORY

HALLANDALE, Fla. —(NEA)— Gulfstream Park, home of the Florida Derby, opened as the show place of Florida thoroughbred racing in 1939.

Four days later it closed.

In 1943, after losing a battle to establish Hialeah and the weeds, a group headed by James Donn fought bankruptcy suits in court in order to re-open the track.

A year later, Gulfstream was re-opened with a meager 5,000 fans turning out for the first day. But that was the last year the Florida track-by-the-sea has not paid off.

The Florida Derby was added to the list of attractions in 1952 to become the first Florida race to be endowed with a $100,000 payoff.

Gulfstream Park begins its 16th year of racing March 3 with a 43-day meeting and 16 events of stakes caliber.

Early Wynn of the Chicago White Sox leads the American League's active pitchers in shutout's with 42. He had five last season.

All But Three Of Top 15 Played Steadily Friday In Finales

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — All but three of the top 15 Illinois high school basketball teams performed steadily Friday in the final weekend of play before starting to shoot for the state championship in regionals next week.

Losers were Waukegan, LaSalle-Peru and Rock Island.

Waukegan, 15th ranked, Proviso East. Proviso has a 17-2 record.

The team classed 10th, LaSalle-Peru, fell for the second time in the week. Elgin captured the Big Eight title with the 58-52 victory. La Salle could have shared the title.

Rock Island, No. 12, lost for the fifth time. Alleman of Rock Island pushed the Rocks into an overtime to achieve the 49-48 triumph.

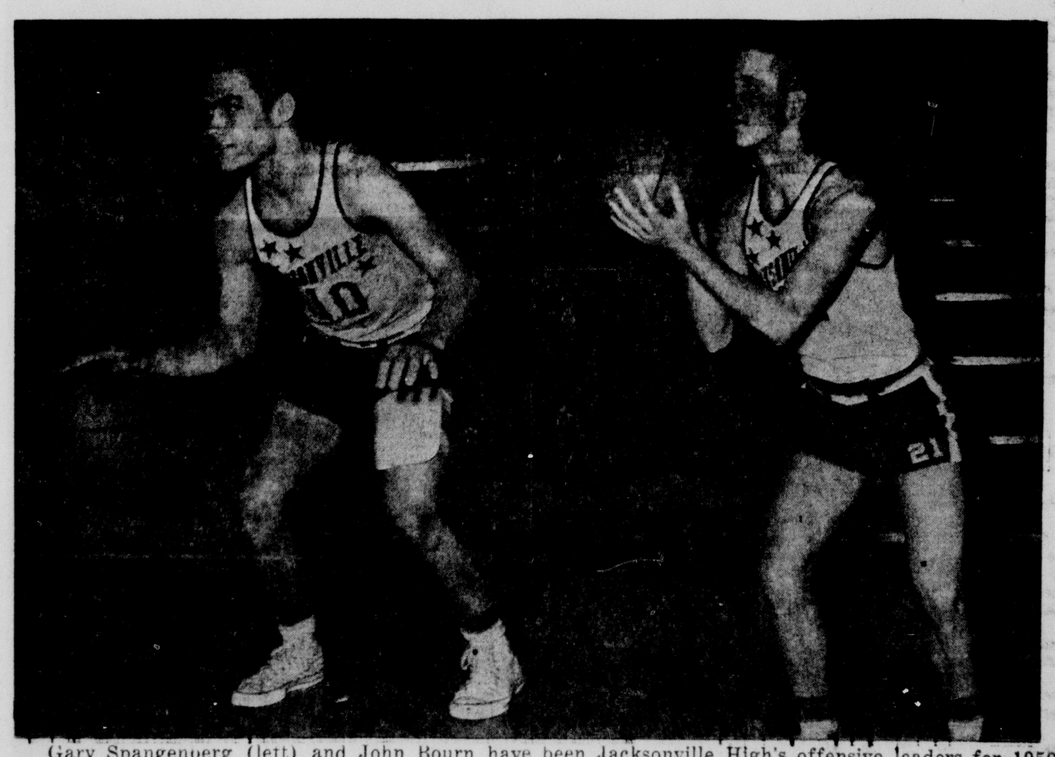

Galesburg, No. 1 team in this week's ratings, whipped East Moline 51-42.

Once-beaten Pinckneyville and Ottawa succeeded again, the Pincks 89-39 over Rantoul. Ottawa barely shouldered past Princeton 61-60.

Collinsville piled up 85 points to East St. Louis Lincoln's 46 and Decatur, another twice-beaten team like Collinsville, swept by Urbana 67-49.

Kankakee dumped Blue Island.

OFFENSIVE LEADERS FOR JHS CRIMSONS

Gary Spangenberg (left) and John Bourn have been Jacksonville High's offensive leaders for 1959-60 and if they are in the groove this week, then the Crimsons stand a good chance to win their 10th Regional crown in 11 years under Coach John Chapman.

Spangenberg was slow coming around after a leg injury which forced him to miss the Crimsons' last two football games. However, he has led JHS scorers with a 10.8 game average.

Senior John Bourn is second in the individual scoring race with a 9.7 game average but is the team's leading rebounding, grabbing off an average of 7 per game.

Crimsons Not Favored; First Time In Years

By STAN SPOTTS

Journal Courier Sports Editor

Rabid basketball followers have been displaying keen interest in the 1960 Jacksonville High Regional Tournament for the past couple of weeks and although many have picked a favorite, others have developed a 'wait and see' attitude as they firmly believe any one of the six teams of the eight-team field could come through and snag the coveted crown that would gain a berth in the Jacksonville Sectional the following week.

Depending on the breaks here and there throughout the week, the fans rate New Berlin, Routt, JHS, Winchester and ISD the big contenders while giving Virginia more than an outside chance to reap the Regional harvest. The other two entries, Waverly and Franklin, aren't given much chance to advance although they are capable of staging an upset along the tourney route.

Unusual Situation

For the first time in Coach John Chapman's 11-year tenure, he and his Crimsons find themselves out of the favored driver's seat in the pre-tourney ratings when the affair opens Tuesday night at the JHS Bowl.

Jacksonville has dominated the Regional roost in this area with nine titles under their belts in the last 10 seasons under Chapman. JHS finds itself taking a back seat to New Berlin and Routt, picked to finish 1-2 in the eight o'clock championship game Friday night.

The Crimsons are definitely a strong contender for a berth in their own Sectional and may be cast in the role of 'spoilers' as they are in the same bracket with the favored Pretzels. But Jacksonville has one big hurdle to leap before drawing any conclusions about Coach Bill Hovey's once-beaten five if they should hook up in the first game of the semifinals Thursday evening at 7 p.m.

Coach Jim Bonds' ISD Tigers will have something to say about JHS' ideas of a semifinal berth when the two clash in the second game Tuesday night at 8:30 p.m.

Pretzels Open Meet

New Berlin is keeping its ambitions and smoldering desires in the dressing room until it can well afford to cut loose and this could only come about with the Regional crown in its grasp. The Pretzels have no illusions about regional play as two of their best teams the past two years have failed in their quest of the crown.

The Pretzels were brides-maids to the Crimsons two years ago, 60-40, and were upset by the Winchester Wildcats last season in a thrilling semifinal skirmish. Hovey has lost four of his 11 lettermen from last year via graduation and this squad annexed 24 wins in 27 contests.

With the seven returning veterans forming the nucleus this year, New Berlin has been beaten only once and that was a fluker to Rochester but nevertheless it cost them the conference team championship. However, the Pretzels did have smooth sailing in the Sangamon County Conference Tournament the last week of January.

Hovey's aggregation opens the tourney Tuesday night, the honor reserved for the favored team, against Coach Jim Bower's Franklin Flashes at 7 p.m.

Routt Plays Wednesday

The second-seeded Routt Rockets, based on their six-point loss to New Berlin in their fourth outing of the season, make their opening bid against Waverly at seven o'clock Wednesday. Coach Bob Winstead's five, 23-4 for the year, stand a very high chance of entering the finals.

Should Routt get by Coach Dick Aiken's Waverly Scotties—an 'up and down' ball club this campaign, and it's expected that they will, then the Rockets would tangle with the winner of the Winchester-Virginia clash in the second game of the semifinals Thursday night.

Routt has already collected triumphs from the Redbirds and Winchester in addition to JHS, ISD and Franklin.

Close Game Expected

The Winchester - Virginia contest shapes up as a battle of centers. The Redbirds have Dave Walter and the Wildcats boast of Tom Flynn. Each has been the offensive mainstay of their respective clubs this season with their scoring and rebounding prowess. Their fol'owers rate them the top centers in this area.

Although Virginia is the conference champion of the Illinois Valley, Winchester has defeated Coach John Murray's Redbirds twice. In the Valley Tournament which Winchester won during the holidays, the Wildcats downed Virginia 52-44. In their other meeting, it was Coach Jack Renfro's Wildcats coming out on top again to the tune of 64-59. The Redbirds' loop mark was 6-1 while Winchester and Greenfield tied for second place, owning 5-2 records.

Team Briefs, Records, Additional Tournament Data

School—New Berlin Nickname—Pretzels
Coach—Bill Hovey Principal—John A. Marr
Won 22 Lost 1

Whether or not Coach Bill Hovey's New Berlin Pretzels are pleased to be the top seeded regional team remains to be seen but there's one thing for sure—they'll give a good account of themselves this week. Hovey's crew always proves tough especially at this time of season.

The Pretzels bring the best won-lost record into the meet having been defeated only once in 23 starts. The one loss to Rochester was enough to knock them out of first place in the Sangamon County conference standings.

But they avenged that loss with an easy breeze through the County conference tournament. Hovey lost four regulars from last year's crew but had seven returning veterans to make up for the graduation loss. The 1958-59 aggregation compiled a winning mark of 24 wins against three setbacks.

Of the lettermen, with the exception of Carl Compardo, all are seniors. Compardo, a 6-2 junior, is the Pretzels' leading point getter, averaging better than 16 points a game. He is followed by Bob Bond, 15.3, and Tim Sullivan, 11.7.

Bond, a former Jacksonville lad, is the team's work-horse in rebounding statistics—gathering in an average of 15 a game. Ed Harney, a junior newcomer to the starting five, and Compardo are second and third in this department, averaging 12 and 9 respectively.

New Berlin has knocked off five of the other seven Regional entries with victories over Routt, ISD, Winchester, Waverly and Franklin.

New Berlin is expected to take Franklin in its stride Tuesday evening and a win here would gain a semifinal berth Thursday night against the winner of the JHS-ISD clash. The Crimsons and Pretzels haven't played during the regular season but New Berlin has played the Tigers, winning a close 53-52 verdict in a cold second half.

In its past two regional showings, New Berlin has reached the altar only once, losing to JHS 60-40 in 1958, and after taking their first step in 1959, they were tripped up in the aisle in an overtime tussle with Winchester.

Coach Bob Winstead figures his Rockets are well supplied with experience at every position and this could mean a lot when they go after the JHS regional crown this week. The positions are filled by two and three year lettermen and this combination of experience has led Routt to another successful season in compiling a 23 win, four loss record.

The Rockets battle Waverly Wednesday night in the opening game at 7 p.m. and this is the first meeting of the two quintets this season. Routt has played all the other regional entries winning six, including a pair of wins over ISD, and losing to New Berlin, 46-40, in their fourth game of the season.

In tournament play, Routt placed second in the Waverly Holiday Tournament, losing to Virden in the finals, 48-44. But in the PMSC Conference tourney, the Winstead crew shaded Triopia for the crown, 46-44. Triopia defeated the Rockets at the beginning of the season to account for one of the four setbacks.

Guard Fred Curtis, who is the team's sparkplug, heads the individual scoring race with an average of 14.7 points per game. Besides being an exceptional dribbler and a fine playmaker, Curtis is also a fine shot as his 400 point total this season indicates. George Trutter and Tom Shanle are second and third respectively to Curtis in the scoring. Trutter is averaging 12.5 points and Shanle 10.1. Shanle, who is the tallest member of the squad, is also their rebounding ace, picking off an average of 14 rebounds a game. George Trutter and Mickey Walker are also high in this category.

Last year Routt carried a 17-game winning streak against JHS in the second game of the regional and the Crimsons snapped it. Routt compiled an 11-game consecutive winning mark this year but Auburn broke it before the Rockets captured wins over their final pair of opponents during the regular season.

Routt hasn't been in the regional finals during Coach Bob Winstead's four year stint but they stand a very good opportunity of getting there come Friday night, being in the same bracket with Winchester, Virginia and Waverly.

The last time Routt made the regional finals, they emerged champs by beating JHS in the 1955 Franklin regional, 53-44.

The 1959-60 campaign also saw Routt, Triopia and Bluffs share the PMSC Conference championship, each team with a 6-1 showing.

Won 3 Lost 18

Jacksonville High's Crimsons have enjoyed anything but a successful season as their record is the worst any Chapman five has ever produced. The Jacks do have one consolation however as they've played one of the toughest schedules Chapman has ever carded. They've just had the misfortune of playing the tougher schedule with a below par five.

And broken down, man for man, it seems impossible for the team to have compiled such a record. Individually, there are four or five boys with great potential but they haven't been able to click as a unit.

When JHS takes the floor against ISD Tuesday evening, the host five will be looking for their first home victory of the campaign. In 13 regular starts at home, they've come out on the short end each time.

The Crimsons should hold their own with any of the entries as far as height is concerned. They also have a good percentage in team scoring, averaging 54.0 points per game. Their biggest downfall lies in an erratic passing game.

Jacksonville probably made its best showing against Athens for its first win of the season after losing 11 straight. Scoring leaders for the Crimsons are Gary Spangenberg, John Bourn and Ken Norton, who is also one of the top rebounders along with Bourn and Richard Sweeney.

Careful observers are picking JHS to take regional honors because as they point out none of the other squads have played such a stiff schedule. One way or another when JHS puts its four consecutive regional titles on the line and its ninth in 10 years, several quintets will soon find out if the Crimsons have learned and gained any knowledge from their losing experiences.

Coach—Jack Renfro Principal—Russell Wilson
Won 19 Lost 7

The Winchester Wildcats may have one advantage in their favor when they bid for regional honors in their initial encounter against Virginia Wednesday night. Although Winchester has been in a tailspin the latter part of the campaign trying to win games, the Wildcats have proven tough in tournaments.

For two consecutive years now, Coach Jack Renfro's Wildcats have emerged with tourney crowns in the Illinois Valley Conference Tournament and their own Invitational affair. Last year in regional play they staged a mild upset by tripping New Berlin but lost to Jacksonville in the finals, 60-39.

In his first year at the helm, Renfro guided his team to a 23-6 record. This year, they stand at 19-7 going into tourney play.

Opponents have had their work cut out in trying to stop center Tom Flynn, Winchester's scoring ace, who has amassed over 500 points this season. Flynn has averaged 21 per contest and also excels under the boards with his 6-4 frame, plucking off 14 rebounds per outing. He is a deadly shot from around the keyhole. Second to Flynn in scoring is junior John Schofield, who has scored 12 points a game.

The Wildcat - Virginia clash should be the best of any of the other three first round games. The two teams will be meeting for the third time when 8:30 rolls around Wednesday night. Winchester has stopped Virginia in two previous outings and despite one of the losses, Virginia laid claims to the Illinois Valley conference championship, which went to the Wildcats with a 7-0 mark last year. Winchester and Greenfield had to settle for second place in the standings with 5-2 marks. The Wildcats also administered a 52-44 setback to Virginia in their first meeting of the opening game of the Illinois Valley Tournament during the holidays.

Should Winchester get by its opening foe, then it would meet the winner of the Routt-Waverly game in the semifinals Thursday night. If the Wildcats triumph and Routt wins, Winchester would be battling a team it lost to by a 62-43 count.

Won 13 Lost 9

Virginia hasn't fared too well in tournament play this year having lost initial starts in the Illinois Valley and PMSC tournament but the Redbirds may have gained some new confidence with the conference crown they are now sporting.

And it's important they chuck this tourney jinx if they are to do anything in the JHS Regional. Virginia must pass its first test against Winchester, a team the Redbirds have lost to twice, in order to get a shot at the winner of the Routt-Waverly contest. Routt also triumphed over the Redbirds, 59-50.

Virginia has compiled a 13-9 record for the season under Coach John Murray, who is in his first year as cage boss. His three veterans, Dave Walter, Dave Marr and Richard Webster are 1-2-3 in the scoring lead. Walter has averaged close to 18 points a game in addition to snagging an average of 15 rebounds per contest.

Marr is second with an 11.4 mark and Webster holds down third place with an 8.7 average. The three vets also are the team's only seniors on the roster.

The game will probably develop into a center duel with Walter vs. Winchester's Tom Flynn. Both boys are about equal in height and with the scoring touch and the final outcome should rest here depending on which of the two boys is the 'hotter.'

Virginia's regional motto will have to be, "A third time is a charm," and it had better be if it expects to go any further in IHSA competition.

Will Coach Jim Bonds' ISD Tigers have enough talent to stop Jacksonville High School Tuesday night when they meet for the first time this season? If the Tigers defeat the Crimsons, it will be the first time in five years a regional foe has stopped JHS and the first time in 11 years that a Chapman five has ever tasted an opening round setback.

In tournament play this year, ISD has garnered thirds in the Louisiana, Mo. tourney and the PMSC conference playoff. They have compiled a 14-10 record this year in Coach Bonds' first season as head coach although he's been at the westend school three years.

Louie Edwards and A. C. Parish are the 1-2 leaders in scoring and rebounding for the Tigers and ISD suffers greatly when one or the other of these boys has an off night. Edwards and Parish are averaging 17 and 14 points a game. Another stalwart in the rebounding chores for ISD is senior Bob Higdon, a 5-11, 196 pound forward. Dale Thompson and Richard Grob strengthen ISD's attack with their outshooting although JHS' concern is stopping Edwards and Parish. These are ISD's biggest scoring threats.

The Tigers started the season in fine style, winning their first four and then losing two before going home for a month over the Christmas holidays. They were slow getting back into the groove but started hitting their stride again in the PMSC Tournament in a close loss to Routt, 43-39, and a 50-45 consolation win over Bluffs.

The Tigers could be on their way up or out. This week will determine what fate has in store for them.

Won 10 Lost 14

Waverly High's Scotties just might give Routt a stern test when the two come face to face for the first time this season Wednesday night in the third game of the JHS Regional.

Waverly has the height and overall speed to make it rough for the Rockets but Routt's experience should provide the difference. The Scotties have won 10 while losing 14 under new Coach Dick Aiken, a former Jacksonville resident and Industry basketball coach. This mark far surpasses last year's record of five wins against 17 losses.

Aiken has built his team around six returning lettermen with five holding down starting roles. With the exception of one, all the veterans are seniors.

John Ford, George A. Brown and Walt Miller are the team scoring leaders with Ford's 15-point average topping the list. Perhaps, Miller is the squad's most consistent ball player with his 10-point average and the most rebounds per game to his credit. Brown is also a rugged performer under the boards and carries around a 10-point game mark.

In tournament competition the Scotties failed to pass an opening test in their own invitational but in the Ashland Invitational they scored triumphs over St. James, Petersburg and Ashland in the championship.

Coach Jim Bower's Franklin Flashes find themselves bucking heads against top-seeded New Berlin in the initial game of the Jacksonville Regional, the second phase of the IHSA Elimination playoffs. Franklin ended its season on a losing note Friday against the Pretzels.

With only three lettermen returning from last year's team which won 11 and lost 10, the regional underdogs carry a mark of five wins against 14 defeats into the annual affair.

The three veterans, all starters, are Tom Francis, John Rawlings and Don Boyer. Francis and Rawlings head the individual scoring and rebounding races among their teammates. The lettermen are also seniors along with Denny Crow and Wayne Anderson.

Dave Walter, one of five big reasons for Virginia's Illinois Valley Conference championship, has done an outstanding job for the Redbirds after somewhat of a slow start in the first two months of the season due to a shoulder injury from football. The 6-3, 190 pound, senior has averaged over 20 points a game for the last 13 starts, even though he is often double and sometimes triple teamed. Only three times this season has he been held to less than 10 points. The Redbird center has made 125 of 316 shots from the field for a 40 per cent average. He has hit at a 62.1 clip from the charity line, sinking 105 of 169 attempts. In 20 games, Walter has averaged 17.7 points a game with a total of 355 points to his credit.

—O—

Walter has also been pretty rugged under the boards for Coach John Murray as his 91 offensive and 137 defensive rebounds recovered is by far the highest mark on the Redbird squad. This total of 228 averages out to 11.4 per game. Dave probably gave his best performance of the year when Virginia wrestled the Valley Title from Greenfield a week ago. He single-handedly out-rebounded and outscored the Tigers in the final four minutes of play. When Virginia plays Winchester Wednesday night, it's anybody's ball game as both teams will be playing on a neutral floor. Winchester has beaten the Redbirds in two previous outings. As I see it, the game will be a battle between Winchester's Tom Flynn and Walter. With whichever center is the hotter, should lie the final outcome. But maybe the other Redbirds and Wildcats have different feelings about this. I know the coaches hope so! Should be a great duel though.

WLDS-FM Sports on Parade, with Barney Lewis and Gerry Cassens furnishing the play-by-play descriptions, will carry the IHSA elimination tournaments for the eighth straight year. All games of the JHS Regional and Sectional tourneys will be broadcast directly in addition to the first-round game at Springfield and the State Championship playoffs at Champaign March 18 and 19.

"Coach, do you think the Crimsons can make it to the state finals this year?" This statement by a student getting a ride home the other evening almost caused Coach John Chapman to lose control of his jeep. After John regained his balance and got another firm grip on the steering wheel, he summed up JHS' chances briefly by replying, "Look, I've scouted ISD for the first time in 11 years and I don't know if we can get by them. Besides, it's a little late in the day to be thinking about the trip to Champaign. We'll have to take one step at a time and hope for the best, but right now I'm worried about ISD in our first regional game." I'll go on record as saying if the Crimsons will listen and play according to instructions, then they might be a surprise entry come the finals Friday night. They won't however if they continue to make stupid mistakes such as inexcusable bad passes.

—O—

"On a right night, they've shown me they can be a tough ball club." This was Coach Bob Winstead's summary of his scouting report on the Waverly Scotties. "They've got speed and height and they could give us plenty of trouble, especially with their pressing man to man defense. Do you know for the first time this season, we finally made a decent showing at the charity line against Farmersville by making 14 of 18 free throws. Prior to this if we hit 40 per cent of our one-pointers this was something. Maybe this routine of making the kids shoot 100 free throws a night is responsible for the improvement. We'll soon find out this week."

There will be no advance sale of tickets for the JHS Regional and there will be no reserved seats. Tournament manager John Agger feels the gymnasium is large enough to accomodate all those wishing to attend the regional playoffs. Ticket prices will be 75 cents for adults and 40 cents for students. Students must have identification slips issued by their principals or an activity ticket for identification purposes. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday night games start at 7:00 and 8:30 p.m. with Friday's championship contest starting at eight o'clock. Gymnasium doors will open at 6:15 p.m. for the three evenings and at seven p.m. on Friday.

Coach George Danhaus was very happy with the outcome of the PMSC Conference meeting last week when it was decided that Bluffs, Routt and Triopia would each receive a trophy for sharing first place in the final PMSC loop standings. The "Big Three" finished with 6-1 records in conference play while ISD was fourth with 4-3, Virginia fifth, 3-4, Perry sixth, 2-5, Meredosia seventh, 1-6, and Chandlerville eighth with a 0-7 loop showing. The conference has added a new member with Petersburg being admitted as the ninth team. The Bluejays enter conference activity next fall.

The state will be well represented when Coach Bonds' Tigers take the floor against JHS Tuesday night. ISD's squad consists of Dale Thompson, Springfield; Bill Davis, Galesburg; Bob Higdon, LaHarpe; Louie Edwards and A. C. Parish of Chicago; Richard Grob, Bonfield; Bobby Poncar, Chicago; Edgar Joyner, Decatur; Edwin Carlson, Waukegan, and Earl Claussen of Mt. Morris. Coach Bonds is a native of Chapin.

Did you know that New Berlin comes into the regional with the best overall mark of 22 wins against a single loss in addition to having the best consecutive winning record of 18 straight? Coach Bill Hovey's Pretzels took their first four victims but Rochester stopped them in their fifth bid. But they bounced back to win their next 18 starts. In Hovey's eight seasons at the helm, his Pretzels have won 154 while losing only 52. Routt has the next best winning record under its belt with 11 straight followed by Winchester's 10 straight wins. New Berlin stopped the Wildcat mark with a 48-47 verdict.

—O—

In Winstead's four years with the Rockets, he has compiled an overall mark of 68 wins against 39 setbacks. Jack Renfro, who is in his second season with Winchester, has compiled a victory string of 54 wins against only 22 defeats. But the "dean" of the regional coaches in this area is John Chapman of JHS. Before the season opened John had directed his teams to a 199 win, 83 loss mark in 10 years. But JHS' worst season in the school's history has brought the record to a 202-101 won, loss mark for 1959-60. Chapman also has 18 years under his belt in the coaching ranks. Speaking of won-loss records, Paul Keller has compiled a 143-27 record in ten years with the old David Prince and now the Jonathan Turner teams. There was also three undefeated teams and they've dominated their own invitational tourney by winning it seven of the 10 years.

—O—

In a poll of the regional coaches as to what team they favored, there seemed to be some mixed reaction. Three coaches favored New Berlin, one vote was cast for Routt, two were undecided and another picked any of the four top-seeded teams as all four are capable of playing three good tourney games. I'm going along with the latter's belief as I think any six of the eight teams are capable of getting the job done. Breaking it down — Routt should be my favorite for top honors and the Rockets are!

—O—

Winchester hit a slump the latter part of the season—losing all seven games after the New Year—and they are hurting now that they've lost Bill Robinson, who tore his knee ligaments during a pre-game warmup drill prior to the Pittsfield game. At the time of the costly mishap, Robinson was playing the best ball of anyone on the squad and was becoming more outstanding with each game in his rebounding and hustling floor game.

—O—

If JHS doesn't make the regional finals, it will be the first time in 11 years. They've made it every year under Chapman and the only time the Crimsons were stopped came in 1955 in the championship tilt against Routt. This year is the second losing season for Chapman with the Jacks. In 1956, they won eight and lost 16 during the regular season but they managed to win the regional and finish up with 11 wins and 17 losses with the last loss coming in the sectional. Chapman feels the 1955-56 aggregation would've had just as poor a season as this year's team save for Billy Jordan, his 6-5 center. The 1959-60 crew has also played a tougher schedule.

The Beardstown Regional will run for five nights starting Monday at seven o'clock when Pittsfield bumps into Rushville and Beardstown meets Bluffs, the Meredosia - Chambersburg District winner, at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday night finds Mt. Sterling facing Pleasant Hill at 7:00 p.m. and Triopia battling Griggsville at 8:30. There are single games on Wednesday and Thursday nights with starting times at 7:30 p.m. The championship game Friday night begins at eight o'clock. Pittsfield and Mt. Sterling are favored to make the finals and should these two teams meet, it would be the third time this season. The Saukees and Hornets have split in their other two meetings. Coach Glenn Ambler's Triopia Trojans are a darkhorse for title honors while Bluffs is given an outside chance to pull an upset. Spike Wilson of Jacksonville and Dale Dougherty of Jerseyville are the officials.

—O—

Jerseyville is favored to rule the roost in the White Hall regional opening Tuesday night when the Panthers face Brussels at 7 followed by the Carrollton-Greenfield game. The Roodhouse Railroaders, seeded second, go against seventh seeded Hardin in the Wednesday night opener with Southwestern of Piasa playing White Hall at 8:30 in the windup game of the first round. The four winners meet in the semifinals Thursday night with the two winners advancing to Friday's eight o'clock championship clash. Ticket prices are adults, 75 cents, and students with ID, 50 cents. Doors will open one hour before each session and there will be no reserved seats. Carl Richardson is tourney manager.

Bids On Mound Ave. Underpass, Paving Called For March 18

Bids on two major sections of the relocation of State Route 104 west of Jacksonville will be received and opened at 10 a. m. March 18 by the Illinois Division of Highways, at Springfield.

The bid opening will include the paving of 2.36 miles of highway from a point near the Charles Hadden farm to U.S. Routes 36-54, and construction of an underpass at Mound avenue, former route of Highways 36-54.

Bids have already been taken by the state department for an overpass at the Wabash railroad.

Melvin J. Benscoter, Morgan county superintendent of highways, said the state department has not yet awarded a contract for the overpass.

Relocation of State Route 104 is one of the big construction jobs scheduled for 1960. By swinging traffic from Route 104 to the federal routes, a large volume of traffic will be diverted from the business district. State Route 104 traffic now moves on North and South Main streets through the public square.

Widening of Highways 36-54 on East Morton avenue and to a point east of the city already is in progress, and activities will be renewed with the arrival of spring weather.

FIVE INJURED IN CRASH NORTH OF MURRAYVILLE

Five persons were taken to Passavant hospital after a collision involving four vehicles on Alternate Route 67, one mile north of Murrayville, shortly before midnight Friday.

Lorton, 30, White Hall, driver of one of the vehicles; and Louise Israel, 26, Roodhouse, a passenger in the Lorton auto. John C. According to State police reports, Thady skidded on ice-covered pavement into a snow-filled ditch. He walked to Murrayville and roused Hardin Rimbey, wrecker driver for the Baker garage, who drove to the scene and was attempting to remove the Thady auto.

The wrecker was hooked onto the Thady auto and attempting to pull it onto the highway when the Lorton auto skidded on the same pach of ice, into the wrecker and Thady auto. Shortly thereafter, the Griswold auto skidded at the same spot, into the three vehicles and then off the east side of the road.

Rimbey was taken to the hospital by his wife; Miss Lorton and Mrs. Israel were taken by passing motorists; and Thady was taken by Sheriff's deputies. Thady's injury was not discovered until some time after the accident.

Rimbey was treated and admitted as a patient; Miss Lorton received out-patient care and was released; Mrs. Israel suffered a foot injury and lacerations; Thady suffered deep lacerations to the head and a neck injury. Mrs. Israel and Thady were admitted as patients.

The wreckage blocked traffic nearly two hours while workmen cleared the damaged autos from the scene. The vehicles were towed away by wreckers from the Brummett and Lukeman garages.

The Latin Beat

It is coincidence, but not quite accident, that two leading Americans, President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson, should be touring Latin America at the same time.

Many Americans will not be pleased to hear that the Latin nations, as with Europe and Asia before them, are now being described as in desperate need of economic assistance. They will wonder where the line stops.

Some will be aware, too, that the Latin countries have not done all they could do to set their own economic houses in good order, nor to encourage the growth of freedom in their political life.

Yet these concerns can hardly lead us to turn our backs completely on our hemispheric neighbors. Self - interest commands that we move somehow to help these people help themselves.

No doubt many are also weary of hearing it said of so many troubled lands that if we don't help, then communism may take over. Unhappily it's true, and weary or not, we must face it.

Stevenson believes that in many ways the danger is greater in Latin America than anywhere, partly because poverty is so deep set and partly because we have for so long focused our eyes elsewhere.

He fears, with evident good reason, that while we are concentrating on Europe and Asia, Communists might entrench themselves in one or more of these lands lying so close from our "side door." Communists gains under Castro in Cuba are only the most obvious signs.

The strategic peril which then would develop for the United States is plain enough. We would have spent billions repelling communism in Europe and Asia, only to find a potential enemy base planted firmly in our own hemisphere.

As the President swings through four Latin lands, he is alert to this menace, to the charges we have neglected them while we looked elsewhere, to the long voiced criticism that we have had Latin America in economic bondage.

Wisely, he calls them now not merely good neighbors but "good partners." That they must be. And good partnership demands mutual effort, toward the end that all parties to the arrangement may move to economic well being and political independence and freedom.

Good Humor Man

Sen. John F. Kennedy, top Democratic presidential candidate, long since has answered the key questions about the relationship between his Catholicism and the government. But he keeps getting them thrown at him.

In this situation he is managing to keep his balance and in fact to inject a spirit of good humor which may help to eliminate some of the bitterness that many fear on the religious issue in this campaign.

Recently, in a New York speech, he jokingly offered a "package deal" as follows: "If they'll make the electoral college interdenominational, we'll open up the College of Cardinals."

Directing himself to those who say a Catholic would be under church domination, he kidded: "I asked Cardinal Spellman what I should say if anyone asked if the Pope were infallible. He said: 'I don't know, senator, but he keeps calling me Spillman.'"

Kennedy also met the issue of his father's money head on: "My father wired me: 'Don't buy one more vote than necessary. I'll be damned if I'll pay for a landslide.'"

Would that more imaginary wires in such vein could be tossed into campaigns. We can all use the levity.

"Say Fellows, the Back Door's Wide Open"

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has promised South America a duck dinner — if the United States can catch a very elusive duck.

That seems to be a pretty fair summary of what President Eisenhower has offered our neighbors to the south on his current, four-nation goodwill tour.

To be more precise the President said:

"Permit me to renew this pledge, which I have made repeatedly: the United States stands ready . . . to devote a substantial portion of the savings made possible by disarmament to vast constructive programs of peaceful developments."

But such savings, like the duck, may be hard to come by.

Eisenhower made the offer in Brazil where President Juscelino Kubitschek proposed a sort of Inter-American self-help plan called "operation Pan-America" in a speech in May 1958.

Under this plan nine nations would pool resources and technical skills to attack the problems of economic underdevelopment.

The President said the United States was joining Brazil in urging an Inter-American meeting to "accelerate the formulation of specific projects needed to translate this plan into a working reality." But any money the United States supplies probably will have to come from other sources.

In any case, wise South Americans probably aren't looking forward to tapping Uncle Sam's disarmament savings account any time in the very near future.

The United States and the Soviet Union have been talking disarmament off and on since 1955. Since November 1958 this nation, the Soviet Union and Great Britain have been talking unsuccessfully about a nuclear test ban.

There is another East-West disarmament conference scheduled for March 15 in Geneva.

At last report the Western allies — the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy—were having difficulty in working out a single disarmament agreement among themselves.

And, mind you, these nations are friends. Each of the Western nations may take its own plan into the meeting with the Soviets and the latter's satellites, Bulgaria, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Romania.

If you want to assume that by some miracle there is an East-West agreement in March, or any month in 1960, that will only be the beginning.

The United States concedes that a disarmament agreement would be ineffective unless Red China concurred. But Red China hasn't been invited.

All this means, of course, that after a successful disarmament agreement everybody will have to sit down with Red China for another round of conferences on the same subject.

So long as Red China is armed no other nation can afford to disarm substantially.

If the South Americans are counting heavily on a slice of the disarmament duck, they probably are going to be pretty hungry.

Privacy Is Key to Housing, Caring for Aged Parents

BY MARIE DAERR

I once heard a doctor say that when he writes a prescription for grandma he sometimes adds one for tranquilizers for the younger members of the family.

What this doctor was saying is that a three-generation household doesn't always run smoothly.

Today's compact, efficient home, for instance, isn't like yesterday's where a spare room for grandma and grandpa meant privacy that was fine for everyone concerned.

"My son wants me to live with him and his family in their big new house, but I said, 'No, thank you,'" a woman of 80, recovering from a broken hip, told me the other day.

Just released from a rehabilitation hospital where she learned how to do many things for herself, she is boarding in a home that, I'm sure, isn't as elegant as the one her son could give her.

"But I feel independent here," she said. "I'm better off this way."

A fine living arrangement for an older person is the one enjoyed by a widower in his 70s. The daughter and son-in-law of this railroad pensioner own a home with a garage apartment that was meant for servants.

The family has no servants, and grandpa is delighted to call this apartment home.

"I'm away from the family, yet I'm part of it," he told me. "I eat my meals with my son-in-law, my daughter and my two grandchildren. "I'm available for baby-sitting, though, no one imposes on me for that task. If I get sick, I know there is loving care at hand."

A recent edition of the London Daily Telegraph and Morning Post published a story about an interesting British solution to the three-generation household problem.

It described a housing project in Chichester, some 30 miles from London, which combines three-bedroom homes with ground floor apartments.

In the home live mother, father and the youngsters. Next door, with access from a communal front hall, live the grandparents.

"I found that old people needing care and attention were living too far away from their children or younger people who could help them," said the medical officer of health. "Thus life was difficult not only for the elderly parents but for their sons and daughters, too.

Herter Beams at Stenogs' Tag of 'Glamour Boy'; Selling U.S. Bonds Is Like Retailing Sausage

BY JERRY BENNETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—A bevy of stenographers crowded the lobby of the National Press Club the day Secretary of State Christian A. Herter spoke there, and the gals gave him a big hand—with screams yet.

"Glamour boy!" somebody said to the six-foot-seven secretary. "For what are you running?"

"No glamour about me," said the blushing but obviously pleased Mr. Herter. "It's just the long association that you Press Club members have had with women that brings them out."

"IT'S JUST LIKE selling sausage," said Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), Economic Committee. He was trying to sell Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson how he ought to sell bonds at under 4¼ per cent.

"Make a good sausage," Douglas explained. "Sell it at auction to get the best price. But make it so good that you don't have to sell it for less than a dollar a pound."

This example was too much for Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.) "I would like to ask the chairman," Sen. Bush inquired, "if it isn't baloney that he has in mind?"

KRAFT EHRICKE, Convair space scientist, says that he is a nonstatistical German. He explains, "I don't care for either beer or sauerkraut."

REP. JIM WRIGHT (D-Tex.) blames too much red tape for all those federal highway overpasses that are too low for missile-hauling trucks. It so confused conscientious bureaucrats, the congressman explains, that they became as bewildered as "Alice in Blunderland."

REP. SIDNEY R. YATES, (D-Ill.) tells this story about Abe Lincoln's first congressional campaign:

One Sunday Lincoln's pastor asked the congregation for a show of hands on how many wanted to go to heaven or hell. Noting that Lincoln showed no preference for either place, the pastor asked:

"If you don't want to go to heaven and if you don't want to go to hell, where do you want to go?"

"Why," Lincoln replied, "I want to go to Congress."

SHANE MacCARTHY, executive secretary of the President's Council on Youth Fitness, believes that too many parents have fallen behind their offspring in space age knowledge.

"Pretty soon," he declares, "there's going to be a White House conference, called by adults, on youth. It might be a good idea to follow up this meeting with a conference, called by youth, on adults."

REP. RUSSELL MACK (R-Wash.) visited a country store on a recent tour of the congressional district he has represented since 1947.

"I'm running for Congress this year," he told the proprietor, "and would appreciate your vote."

"Be glad to vote for you," the storekeeper replied. "It's high time we got rid of that do-nothing who has been representing us for the last 14 years."

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

'Spiritual Bewilderment'

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The phrase "spiritual bewilderment" occurred recently in the report of a meeting of Jesuit college presidents at Boston near my home in Newton, Mass.

The report said the presidents, realizing that in the 1960s "the stress of education will be in science," urged that "balance must not be lost in a process which exists solely for the benefit of man himself."

The report added:

"The astonishing conquets of matter, energy and space gives rise to a spiritual bewilderment in which man can lose his sense of purpose.

"It is all too evident that the American moral fabric is being severely strained by the material advances that have run ahead of our responsible use of them. The development of a human person at once morally mature an intellectually accomplished is the unchanging aim of Jesuit education."

A Protestant, who might not share all aspects of Jesuit education, must nevertheless admire the unselfish devotion of those who in consecrated spirit set themselves to the task of religion and education as they see it. I think, however, that many Protestant and Jewish educators, who sense these same conflicts, are equally devoted to the whole purpose of education.

It is true also, I believe, of many educators who do not fall in that religious category of Roman Catholics, Jews and Protestants. I believe, too, that the aims of many scientists are to promote and find a better basis for human life as well as a better material world.

The deeper tragedy that the Jesuit statement does not suggest is that a vast mass of people feel no "spiritual bewilderment" at all. They have no concern about the moarl or spiritual values that constitute a sound basis for society.

Who are these, the millions, with no such bewilderment? They are thos whose aims, hopes and actions are wholly materialistic. They are the millions whose chief purpose in life is to entertain or be entertained. They are the millions of the shallowly drifting and the aimless who constitute an enormous undeveloped human field.

How to reach these is the greatest problem of religion and education—to make them feel so spiritually disturbed that they may be aroused to do something about it.

I don't know how Jesuit education is meeting that problem. My impression is that it operates chiefly on those who are spiritually disturbed. My own feeling is that to arouse spiritual bewilderment and to meet it, a great movement of evangelihm is needed, far beyond such movements as they now exist.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Judging from the mail, TV viewers are concerned about the violence on the home screen.

A fortnight ago, I clocked the beatings, sluggings, mayhem and murder on the Friday night crime and Western shows. It required perseverence to sit through three hours of blood-letting, but I managed. The findings: One murder every 16 minutes, with the slaughter rate increasing as the night grows older (the networks theorize that more violence is allowable when the kiddies toddle off to bed).

The survey brought as much mail as anything in this space for many months. Here are some of the samples:

"My compliments to you for 'slain, slugged, stabbed!' If critics across the country followed your example, TV might become a normal medium of entertainment and help curb the present abnormal amount of crime." — Molly Marson, Hollywood, Calif.

"Congratulations for having nerve enough to print what the majority of people think about our lousy TV pictures. No wonder we have juvenile delinquency in droves.

"We bought TV to keep our children home and entertained. They could learn no more crime in the streets. The banned quiz programs were at least entertaining and educational even if fixed."—E. S. S., Los Angles.

Just to show there are two sides to the issue, here are two dissenting opinions:

"I think your remarks are groundless, just as ridiculous as lipstick being banned because of coal tar dyes used in the coloring of them. Television is for entertainment and perhaps all who watch (violent) shows forget them as soon as they are over.

For my money critics are a lot of cynical, narrow-minded people who enjoy what power they have over ratings and programs. It would be a blessing if they were all sent to Siberia."—Mrs. John Burch, Joplin, Mo.

"Can't you take it with a grain of salt? They are just a story and nothing more. Have just one word to add—

"Sissy." — Betty Jayne Tuttle, Pasco, Wash.

Communication

Editor
Jacksonville Journal Courier
Jacksonville, Illinois
Dear Sir:

I would like the opportunity to clarify certain matters mentioned in your article on my Feb. 22nd talk to the Altrusa Club of Jacksonville.

I wished at that time to indicate that the Jacksonville State Hospital was potentially as fine a treatment center for the mentally ill as any other. However, it was (and is) my contention that the qualified experts working in the hospital are often asked to care for people not legally mentally ill—people who reasonably should receive aid at other settings. I tried to stress the need for greater awareness on the part of community members (lay and professional) to the reality of the hospital's primary responsibility: care and treatment of the mentally ill.

Pointed out was the fact that our hospital must definitely share in helping educate the public; that experts here would have to aid in guiding ill (but not mentally ill) individuals to other appropriate centers of care.

One basic point was: should the non-mentally ill be sent to other places for aid, this would undoubtedly allow our experts to spend more time with the mentally ill; greater benefits would thus accrue to the mentally ill, and, likely, to those treated elsewhere. Ours is a hospital for treatment of legally mentally ill people and is especially geared to treat same; these people can be helped and cured. The public must help us safeguard our functions in this regard. The hospital must protect its functions with all its energy.

I am obliged to mention that much of this thinking is borrowed from a recent article by William F. Sheeley, M.D., Project Chief A.P.A. General Practitioner Education Project, Washington, D.C., in the October, 1959, Mental Hospital Magazine.

Some final remarks—the title of my talk was: "Vocational Training, For What! or Protecting State Hospital Function." It was expected to convey: let our experts do the jobs for which they have been highly trained. My colleagues and I know clearly "for what we are trying:" the recovery of as many mentally ill people in the shortest time possible.

I appreciate your coverage of my speech, and thank your paper for providing its readers needed information about the hospital. I did, however, wish to try to clear up any misunderstandings which might stem from the article.

Sincerely,
Martin Cohen, Ph.D.

Here's What Really Gives Inspiration for Cooking

"A Proper Place to Inspire the Art of Cooking," says the heading over a picture story of a beautiful kitchen in one of the leading magazines on home decorating.

With all due respect to the editors of the magazine I'd like to point out that a beautiful kitchen isn't what inspires a housewife to roll up her sleeves and start rattling pots and pans.

Nothing inspires a woman to cook like a houseful of hungry kids and a husband who enjoys eating. Given them, a woman will cook up a storm and feel well repaid for her efforts if her children ask for seconds and her husband says, "Nobody can make (this particular dish) like you can."

A convenient kitchen can make the job of preparing delicious meals easier. A beautiful kitchen can give a housewife a feeling of prideful pleasure—especially if it is the envy of all her friends.

But it takes a family to cook for to really inspire a woman to get right down to the business of baking bread, making pies, and frying chicken.

If you don't believe it just ask some widow who lives alone in a house with a beautiful, modern kitchen if she likes to cook.

She'll probably tell you: "I used to, when I had a family to cook for, but it's not much fun cooking for one, so I eat out a lot, or just eat a snack out of the icebox."

No, it's not the kitchen that inspires the cook. It's a hungry family she knows will applaud her cooking skill with every request for "just a little more, please."

Sec. Benson Today Has Few Illusions About Congress Stemming Multibillion-Dollar Flow Of Farm Subsidies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six years ago a tall, bespectacled man named Ezra Taft Benson tossed Congress a barbed question.

"At what point," he asked, "will the 140 million Americans who do not live on farms rise up and demand outright elimination of all aid to agriculture?"

Mindful of a long and costly failure to solve the nation's farm problem, Benson didn't expect an answer. Nor did he get one.

If he seemed hopeful then of prodding Congress to stem the multibillion - dollar flow of farm subsidies—and curb the huge crop surpluses stimulated by federal aid—Benson today has few such illusions.

Steeled to political realities by seven years in office, the 60-year-old secretary of agriculture can only shake his head, ruefully, at the never-ending paradox of U.S. taxpayers staggering under the burden of mountainous farm surpluses in a hungry world.

President Eisenhower, in a special message to Congress on Feb. 9, urged the lawmakers to act swiftly to halt snowballing surpluses.

"If our government does not act quickly, the danger is very real that this entire program will collapse under pressure of public indignation," he warned Congress.

Benson believes that if farmers were left alone, without federal interference, they would quickly adjust their crop production to conform with the law of supply and demand.

But some farm leaders contend that if price supports were scrapped, it would drive food prices sky high and cost the American housewife far more than the tax bite of federal price supports.

To Benson, the overriding concern is the apparent futility of spending billions of dollars on what he regards as a hopeless cause.

"Agriculture is undergoing a technological revolution and it is irreversible," he says. "It cannot be controlled by government mandate."

But farm - belt lawmakers, spurred on by farm pressure groups, seem as determined as ever to keep the federal aid pot boiling.

Illusory or not, many politicians still regard the farm vote as powerful enough to tip the scales in a close election. This is true despite the farm population decline from 32 million in 1920 to 16 million today.

On the other hand, some political bigwigs are beginning to think the importance of the farm vote may be exaggerated. They see the voice of the city becoming ever more potent and city dwellers taking a dim view of paying tax dollars to provide whopping farm subsidies.

The government, says Benson, has lost more than 20 billion dollars since 1933 in attempting to stabilize farm prices and income.

This year alone it will cost nearly four billion dollars for various farm subsidy programs. Yet farm prices at the end of 1959 sagged to the lowest level in nearly two decades.

Through the years, under Democratic and Republican administrations alike, critics have assailed the federal farm program as "Cockeyed. Bankrupt. A colossal failure. Outlandish. Crazy. Ruinous. This terrible mess."

But when Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind) last year offered a Senate bill to wipe out all farm supports and controls after 1960, he was snowed under by a 69-5 vote.

Item: The government pays farmers, via artificially high price supports, to grow more food than we can eat and then adds to the taxpayers' expense by putting the excess food in storage with little chance that it will ever be used.

(The government now has 235,000 huge storage bins scattered in 23 states. In addition, it uses 225 idle merchant ships to store 43 million bushels of surplus wheat. Storage fees run more than a billion dollars a year.)

Item: Livestock growers, who have consistently refused federal price supports, are the most prosperous segment of American agriculture today. Wheat and cotton farmers, with the biggest price supports, are in the worst trouble.

For the long-suffering U.S. taxpayer, who contributes 14½ cents of every nondefense tax dollar to support agriculture, the end is nowhere in sight.

"There is too great a divergence of opinion whether we should go to tougher controls—toward a regimented 'police state' in farming—or toward a free market," says a Department of Agriculture official.

Republicans say the Democrats are deliberately balking at any corrective legislation in order to blame the Eisenhower administration for the farm headache.

Benson says the Democratic-controlled Congress has not only refused to give him a workable program, but has insisted on high price supports which inevitably produce more and more surpluses.

President Eisenhower, praising Benson as an honest, courageous and devoted public servant, says he agrees the country would be better off if farmers were free from government regulation.

Wherever the responsibility may lie, the fact remains that government-owned farm surpluses have increased four-fold since President Eisenhower took office in 1952—from 2.3 billion to 10 billion dollars worth.

In past Democratic administrations, the heaviest price-support loss for any one year was $345,500,000 in 1951 during the Truman regime. This compares with a record loss of $1,299,000,000 in 1957 during the Republican administration.

The smooth-tempered Benson shrugs off such criticism. Only Congress, he says, can change the farm support laws.

He points out that the secretary of agriculture is required by law to set wheat price supports at a level between 75 and 90 per cent of prices which prevailed in 1910-1914 when farm prices were high.

The result has been the greatest wheat glut in history.

The wheat grower gets a federal loan on his wheat crop at the current price-support level of $1.81 a bushel. If the market price rises above $1.81, he repays his loan, takes his wheat back from the government, and sells it on the open market. If the price stays below $1.81, he pockets the federal loan and surrenders title to the wheat to the government. That's what generally happens.

To qualify for federal price supports, in turn, the farmer must agree to limit his production to a specified number of acres. The theory is that with fewer acres planted, over-all production should drop—and supluses dwindle.

Unfortunately it hasn't worked out that way.

Since World War II, a veritable technological explosion in agriculture has frustrated almost every attempt to curb production by reducing the number of acres planted.

Simple as it sounds, the idea is beset by boobytraps. For one thing, it would depress world food prices and cause economic upheavals in other surplus-producing countries.

Recently New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller suggested that the government take 60 million acres out of production—about one-sixth of all U.S. cropland—and pay farmers a rental fee for retiring their land. Advocates say this would just about end surpluses.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

CATTLE NUMBERS UP 9% SINCE 1958

The nation's cattle herd increased 9 percent in the past two years. The USDA estimated number of cattle and calves on farms and ranches January 1, 1960, at 101,520,000 head. That was 5 percent more than one year before and also 5 percent above the previous record high four years ago.

Beef cattle on hand January 1 were estimated at 68,536,000 head. This number was 7 percent more than a year ago and 14 percent more than two years ago. It was two years ago that cattle numbers reached their low for this cycle.

For those who like to make comparisons with population, our population has increased about 1¾ percent in each of these years, or 3½ percent in the two years.

Number of Steers over one year old increased 8 percent and 17 percent in the past two years. The number on farms January 1 of this year was estimated at 11,009,000. Most of these steers will be marketed this year.

Numbers of calves under one year were estimated at 21,093,000 head, up 7 percent from the year before and up 14 percent from two years before. Some of these calves will be marketed as beeves next summer and fall. Others will be fed out in 1961 or added to breeding herds.

Numbers of beef heifers one to two years old on farms and ranches on January 1 were estimated at 7,419,000 head. That was 9 percent more than a year ago and 22 percent more than two years ago. These heifers will be slaughtered or added to breeding herds in 1960.

Numbers of beef cows increased 7 percent in 1959, rising to 27,263,000 at the beginning of this year. The increase over the two-year period was 11 percent.

Comparisons With 1956

We now have considerably more beef cattle in relation to human population than we had at the peak of numbers in the previous cattle cycle four years ago. In proportion to the number of consumers, we now have 3 percent more beef calves, 8 percent more steers and also 8 percent more heifers than we had at the beginning of 1956. The number of beef cows is the same, in proportion to population, as it was at that time, but the number of dairy cows is 3 percent lower. (Dairy cows eventually make beef too.)

In 1956, the year of the last previous peak of cattle numbers, farmers sold enough cattle to provide each person with 35 pounds of beef, 4 more pounds than last year. These sales, combined with very heavy sales of hogs, kept prices of choice steers in the lower 20s most of the year. Farmers may supply as much beef to consumers this year as they did in 1956, but competition from pork will not be so great. We might well remember, however, that the yearly average price of choice steers at Chicago was under $24 for three consecutive years—19[illegible] 1956 and 1957.

New Varieties Of Alfalfa Look Good

C. N. Hittle, University of Illinois agronomist, calls it a "healthy situation." He sees commercial alfalfa interests following the growth pattern set by the hybrid corn industry. "Although we haven't done enough testing of the new entries to make definite evaluations, many varieties do look promising," Hittle says.

For its 1960 recommendations the Department of Agronomy sticks with Atlantic, Buffalo, DuPuits, Ranger and Vernal. Substantial performance figures speak well for all of them.

Atlantic is winter hardy and fast growing. It is not wilt resistant and therefore is recommended only for short-term stands.

The wilt-resistant Buffalo works in either short- or long - term stands. It is not recommended for the northern two or three tiers of counties.

DuPuits starts growth early in spring, recovers rapidly from grazing and blooms earlier than most varieties. Very susceptible to wilt, it should be used only in short-term stands.

Ranger is both wilt resistant and winter hardy and can be used in either short- or long-term stands.

Vernal is also wilt resistant and stands up well under grazing. It is recommended only for the northern half of Illinois.

As promising newcomers to University of Illinois variety trials, Hittle lists Cody, Intercross 200, Intercross 300 and FD-100. Hittle says these are not blends—they're name varieties.

8 Illinois Farm Youths To Visit Foreign Lands

URBANA — Eight outstanding Illinois farm youth will represent the United States in foreign countries under the International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) program, Hugh Wetzel, Illinois IFYE committee chairman, announced today.

The Illinois delegates, and countries were they will go, are Mary Jo Cunningham of Georgetown, Peru; Eunice Schaudt, Pinckneyville, Republic of China; Lois Warfield, Gibson City, Australia; Walter Griffith, Galesbrug, Dominican Republic; Donald Smallwood, Fairbury, Ireland; John Sadler, Fithian, Argentina; James Rea, Mulkeytown, Finland; and Leon Shaw, Woodstock, Mexico.

These young people were selected for their outstanding leadership in 4-H and other farm youth activities. They join more than 100 U.S. IFYE delegates in countries throughout the world.

Wetzel says each delegate will stay with four to 12 farm families during his four- to six-month stay in the country. In exchange, farm youth from cooperating countries will visit and work on Illinois farms.

Since the program began in 1948, more than 1,000 U.S. IFYE delegates have visited 50 countries in Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America, the Pacific area and the Middle East. About 1,200 foreign youths have visited and worked with U.S. farm families.

Work is proceeding rapidly on the 1960 University of Illinois Farm and Home Festival March 31 and April 1-2. Ten major exhibit stories will dramatically show an important part of college work that contributes to the festival theme, "Progress for Better Living."

Numerous tests with the feed additive ethanol (ethyl alcohol) indicates that it won't help dairy heifers make faster gains, according to a University of Illinois dairy specialist.

One of the major exhibits at the 1960 University of Illinois Farm and Home Festival March 31 and April 1-2 will feature "Chemistry in Agriculture." It will show the important contribution chemicals make in modern-day farming.

Gifts For Cal

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

"What Can I Make?"

Mariah tried to think of something she could make for her cousin at Yale in that long - ago time. Her mother had knitted a long warm muffler to wrap around his neck twice, roll up over his ears and cross long ends under his coat.

Emily had cross stitched the last pansy petal on a pair of house slippers. "I know that dormatory floors can be cold," she told her sister.

Janey had fringed a Yale blue ribbon bookmark embroidered with his initials, but Mariah looked at a lap full of sewing pieces and could not make up her mind.

What Is It?

She picked up the scissors. Presently she basted two red squares over a sturdy while lining, then stitched them together with a loop at one corner.

"Is it something to keep him warm?" Emily guessed.

"No, it is to keep his hand cool," and she spread out a neat and thick holder.

But what would a college boy in 1853 do with that! They did not have cook-outs or barbecued hamburgers then.

On Living Alone

By Mabel Hall Goltra

Part 3: No More Parrots

I flew to my first cloakroom
And pulled my blue raincoat about.
"It's going to rain, Mr. Brackett"
Said Poll, with perceptible shout.
The critter looked up at the parrot,
And I peeped up at the stairs.
But instead I ran to the cellar
Lest my heart be laid up for repairs.
The cellar was actually chilly,
And when I heard not a sound,
I went back to reason with Polly,
But there was no one to be found.
Since then I've adopted no parrots;
I'll be my own talking machine,
But I live by myself and enjoy it;
Climb mountains and visit ravines.
From morning till night I am happy
As any lone critter may be.
Because I have more than one hobby
And all of them interest me.
But if I keep up my spirits
A Congressman may come along—
I'll snatch up my red and white rabbit
And the organ may peel out a song.

Preparing Own Meat In Long-Ago Days

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 4: Neighbors Come

Aunt Jane is telling Nephew Andy of the way people in long-ago days prepared their own meat. She tells how they started fires under kettles of water outdoors and continues—

After the fires were going well, Pa and the boys pulled out the big, home-made sled and placed it near the kettles and hanging bar. Then they placed a large barrel or scalding vat on the ground at one end of the sled, with the open end of the barrel tilted against the sled in a slanting position, so the hot water wouldn't run out. The vat, or barrel, had to be tightly wedged so it couldn't tip when the hog was doused.

Every now and then, Pa and the boys would warm their fingers over the cheery fire, and they often stomped up and down to start the circulation in their numb toes but no one thought of complaining. No one tried to get out of his share of the work for happiness and hardships mixed well in those days. Besides, a boy who shunned a few hardships or considered calloused hands a disgrace wasn't much of a real "he-man," and was branded "lazy."

Neighbors Come

By the time the kettles were boiling like mad, sending up great, swirling billows of steam to meet the rosy glow of dawn, the neighbors began pulling in through the gate in wagons, or sleds if there was a snow. Sometimes a head would appear over a hill, and the next instant a man with scraping knife in hand, would appear trudging along. Almost every man had his own scraper or knife, and the neighbor women usually brought along a dish or pail of something to help out with the dinner for butchering day was a real party!

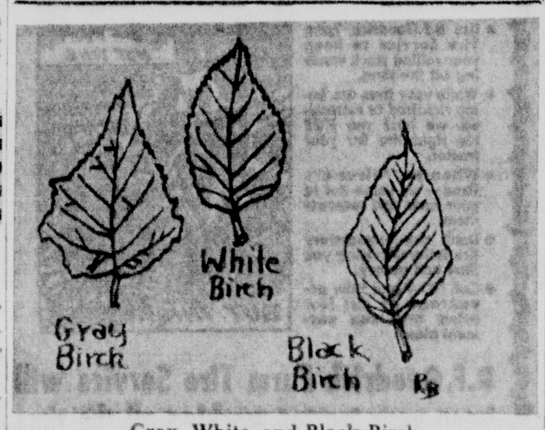

As soon as the neighbors were gathered, the hogs were driven into a small pen, and Pa, and one of the boys walked through the snow with rifle in hand. No one really liked to kill a hog, yet every man was proud of his marksman-ship, if he could draw a close bead and hit the porker in the right spot and fell him at the first shot.

As soon as a boy was old enough, Pa permitted him to try his skill for, after all, a boy must learn some time and most of could shoot through a knot-hole in a gate by the time they were sixteen or a little older.

Wonder World — One Of These Trees Gives Candy Flavor

By Rip Barnsdall

Gray, White, and Black Birch

The wood of the gray birch is often used in the making of spools for thread.

It grows to 20-30 feet and has a trunk diameter of 6 to 12 inches. A common feature of this tree is that several trees group from the same root system.

Used For Canoes

The white birch, often called the paper birch, is perhaps most famous for its use in the building of Indian canoes.

It is now used in the making of writing paper. Bark should never be peeled from this tree, since a black ring remains where the bark was peeled.

Sweet Sap

The black birch, often called sweet birch, is most often found in cool, moist locations.

Oil of wintergreen, often used to flavor candy and gum can be distilled from the twigs and inner bark. Birch beer is made from the sap of this tree.

CQ RADIO HAMS—

Radio For Boys

By Joseph A. Smith

Lets assume that we have a 6BQ6GT tetrode final amplifier tube. Its grid bias is obtained from a grid resistor via the usual grid cussent times grid resistance drop across this resistor.

Also, we might add a cathode series resistor between ground and its cathode. Cathode current flowing through this resistor times the amount of resistance will produce a given amount of positive cathode voltage.

Since a cathode must be negative to pass current, applying a positive voltage on the cathode has the same effect as if you applied more negative voltage on the control grid. Both will tend to limit the flow of current through the tube.

The capacitor across this cathode resistor is the usual bypass capacitor. Voltage for its screen grid should come from a regulated source of 250 volts of B-plus voltage.

This voltage is in turn dropped through a series dropping resistor (again an I times R drop) so as to obtain the required 150 volts for the screen grid of the 6BQ6GT final amplifier tube.

The plate circuit is the conventional shunt type of plate tank circuit wherein plate voltage (from 350 to 550 volts of B-plus) passes from the supply positive terminal through an R. F. choke and onto the final amplifier plate.

The R. F. output signal is capacitively coupled to the shunt type parallel or pie type tank circuit. We can tune this capacity and inductance circuit to either the fundamental or second harmonic of the incoming grid driv signal.

Output R. F. from the plate tank can either be taken off through the use of a link winding at the bottom of the tank call and into a tuner or into untuned line, or it can be capacitively loaded into out antenna load by means of a Pietype loading variable capacitor.

Signal from an external VFO may be fed into the grid of the R. F. final amplifier. This furnished a source or drive that can be moved frequency wise.

For best results, voltages to the oscillator and screen of the final amplifier would be obtained from a regulated source such as a pair of V. R. tubes (as a VR-150/30 in series with a V. R. - 150/30 from the power supply voltage output to ground) whose source of voltage is around 350 volts.

The VR tubes must have an adjustable resistor (wire wound) in series with them which is adjusted for proper operation. The output voltage from them will be around 255 volts plus or minus one volt. See K9FOH or W9ZDN of this city for complete schmetic.

INSIGNIA RETIRES TOO

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Air Force Lt. Col. John K. Coughlan is retiring this spring, and his flying insignia will be retired too. Coughlan flew gas-inflated lighter-than-air ships before they were dropped from the Air Force inventory, and his airship pilot's wings are being donated to the Air Force Museum here.

LESSONS BY THE TON

BIRTHDAY PARADE

Jackie Lee Pierson

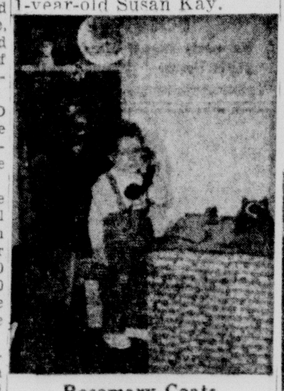

Our parade is off to a good start today with Jackie Lee Pierson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pierson of 106 W. Independence, leading the way. Jackie was 4 years old February 21.

Dale J. Phillips

Looking ready for fun, Dale J. Phillips marches along next. Dale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Phillips of No. 9 Pine Place and had 3 candles to blow out on his Birthday cake February 18.

Shirley Newell Draine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Draine of 711 N. Diamond St., has only one day to wait for her 7th Birthday, February 29. Shirley is the big sister of Timothy Edwin, age 3, and 1-year-old Susan Kay.

Rosemary Coats

Telephone bells ring as Rosemary Coats starts off our March Birthday Parade. She writes (with a bit of help) "My name is Rosemary and I am the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Coats of Bluffs. I will be 2 years old March 3.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

To march in the Birthday Parade just send your name, address and age—with a snapshot if you have one—to the Jacksonville Junior Journal-Courier two weeks before your Birthday. Photos may be called for as soon as they have appeared in the paper.

If you have a Birthday party, write and tell us about that later.

This Man-Of-War Does Not Kill With Cannons

By N. Richard

Part 2: Dangerous Sting

Last week we told you about the sea creature whose name sounds like that of a warship—Portuguese Man-Of-War. Even though it has no guns we found that it can kill with its sting that can cause a swimmer to drown.

If it is not fatal, the sting can cause severe burning pains, make a person extremely ill, interrupt breathing and even leave scars. The sting cells hold coiled tubes which spring out like a harpoon upon contact.

Once they have been discharged the cells are discarded and new ones take their place. It seems strange that so delicate an animal should be so dangerous to man.

Captures Fish

When a fish is caught by the man-of-war it is surrounded by folds of tissue which are normally held closer to the underside of the float. These folds serve to contain the fish while digestive enzymes are poured over it.

The enzymes are quite strong and change the captive fish to liquids which can be absorbed into the cells of the jellyfish.

Portuguese Man-of-War may be found along the coast of Florida but sometimes they are washed ashore much farther north.

Most of us will not have an opportunity to see this interesting creature but we can know something about it.

Let's Go Birding

Play Yard In The Air

By Emma Mae Leonhard

If we should want to see birds use the air as a playground—diving, gliding, planing, hovering—we should spend a morning with hawks. If is windy, it is all the better for the hawks, if not for us.

Some of our best hawk mornings have been foggy in the begining. After the sun had sucked away the mist and warmed the air, the soaring birds of prey began to play. These sailing hawks or raptors must find up currents in the air, or remain home-bound; and the sun had started columns of hot light air upwards.

This playground in the air, high or low, is as expansive as the sky, wide enough for hawks, not for just one hawk. As we drive along a country road, we may suddenly see a dark speck in the sky, perhaps another one near it.

At first the specks seem to be merely black spots floating before your eyes. Then almost mysteriously the spots become forms that shape into broad - winged and round - tailed birds with zoned light breasts or perhaps rufous ones.

As the hawk swerves and tilts, we may see a rufous red tail which identifies the bird as a Red-tailed Hawk. Or we may detect heavy dark bands across both sides of its tail and know that we are gazing at a Red-shouldered Hawk.

The bird may be quite light, and the longer tail pink or almost white; this is the Krider's Hawk. It may hover with beating wings; here is a Rough-legged Hawk. If the hovering bird is clear white below and blackish above and is flying near water, it is the Osprey.

Whatever kind of buteo the hawk may be, we admire the vast, sweeping curves of the birds riding the air currents. We gaze in wonder at the graceful and effortless veering and soaring, the tilting and sailing.

If our neck grows cramped, as we gaze at the playground in the air above us, we can drive on and soon see a great moth-like gray bird with long wings and a long tail sailing bouyantly and balancing and tipping on cross-currents of air overfields, marshes, or grassy uplands. Here we recognize the very graceful Marsh Hawk.

Or we may observe a small swallow-like hawk with a rufous red tail and handsome black - and-white face pattern as it flies from a telephone wire over the field, hovers on rapidly beating wings, and flies back to its station. We expect to see several of these colorful Sparrow Hawks on a morning's drive.

Occasionally a Bluejay-sized bluish gray falcon may sail across the field, and we know that the Pigeon Hawk is there. A sharp-shinned or a Cooper's Hawk may possibly appear.

On an ideal morning all of these species of hawks can possibly be seen near Jacksonville in the playground of the air. We need not look further for models of gracefulness, agility, and poise. No, the TV dancers cannot compete with them.

Only work that has been translated into more languages than Shakespeare's writing is the Bible.

Rockets And Space —

No Gravity At All

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

As soon as the rocket motors cut off the pilot goes from a gravity field several times that of earth to a condition of no gravity at all. Scientists call this weightlessness.

Weightlessness comes about when some force balances the pull of gravity. This force is usually centrifugal force in a rocket.

The centrifugal force pulls a rocket flying a curved path away from the earth while gravity pulls it toward the earth. Of course, when the rocket begins to head back toward the earth centrifugal force and gravity start pulling in the same direction.

Even when the rocket is dropping toward earth the pilot would still be weightless if it weren't for air resistance slowing the ship down. This is because everything falls to the earth with the same speed regardless of weight.

It is almost impossible to simulate weightlessness on the ground because of earth's gravity. In planes weightlessness can be simulated for a period as long as a minute.

This is done by putting the plane into a curved path like that of a rocket. The trouble with this technique is that the periods of weightlessness are too short for study of its long range effects.

At the Wright Air Development Center weightlessness experiments have been made both on the ground and in the air.

Canadian-Style Bacon

Sometimes certain foods are thought of only in connection with certain meals and a good example of that is pancakes. They are usually served as a breakfast item, and yet many of us have really enjoyed pancakes as an evening meal. Some of us have more time to enjoy them at that time, and possibly we have bigger appetites too. Another food that we often think of in connection with breakfast is Canadian-style bacon. It is a delicious breakfast meat, but there are many ways of preparing it for luncheon and dinner meals as well. Pictured above are slices of broiled Canadian-style bacon served with spiced peaches. The combination of color as well as flavor is going to make a hit at any hour of the day.

One of the things that popularizes Canadian-style bacon is the variety of ways that it can be prepared. It can be roasted, panbroiled, panfried, or broiled and makes a delicious addition to casseroles. Any method of preparation is simple, and broiling is no exception. Cut 8 slices of Canadian-style bacon ½ inch thick and place on a broiler rack. Insert broiler rack and pan in broiler so that the top surface of the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. When the bacon is nicely browned, about 5 or 6 minutes, turn and brown other side. Allow 8 to 10 minutes total broiling time. When cut to a thickness of ½ inch, 8 slices will offer an ideal quantity for 4 servings.

Canadian-style bacon is unlike other bacon in that it is made from the boneless back strip of a pork loin. There is a high proportion of lean meat. This cut is then cured and smoked and becomes what we know as Canadian-style bacon. In appearance it is the color of smoked ham and is sometimes mistakenly identified as such; though smoked ham is often prepared in much the same way, there is no similarity in shape or size, and once having compared the two cuts, there can be no doubt of the easy identification of both.

PLAN SUMMER COURSES FOR BUSINESSMEN

Three Jacksonville businessmen met Tuesday with MacMurray College officials to discuss the possibility of adding new summer school courses which would interest young businessmen. Left to right in picture: Jerry Wellenkamp, Personnel Manager, Kordite, Inc., Robert Sibert, Treasurer, New Method Book Bindery; John Wellman, Assistant Professor of Economics and Business, MacMurray, who would teach the courses; and Ed Wheeler, Hertzberg New Method Book Bindery.

If enough interest can be obtained in these courses, they will be scheduled for six weeks in June and July. They would be in accounting and business finance, designed especially for the Jacksonville community.

"We hope this is just the beginning of a new service by MacMurray to the Jacksonville community," John Rider, Assistant to the President, stated at the meeting. "This is another demonstration that the college is able to provide educational leadership right here at home."

Also attending the meeting was Dr. Wendell S. Dysinger, Dean of Faculty, and Tom Skiles, Public Relations Director.

White Hall High Receives Award In State Project

WHITE HALL—W. J. Ritchey, president of the White Hall Lions Club, has announced plans are in readiness for the concert to be given Monday night by Rubinoff at the new junior high school gymnasium at 8:15 o'clock.

Rubinoff will appear on that day at the Hillview school building at 9 a.m.; at the White Hall elementary school building at 10:00 a.m. and at the White Hall junior and senior high schools at 11:00 a.m. for free school concerts. Duration of each concert will be about 20 minutes.

The 23rd annual School Press Project, sponsored by the Greene County Tuberculosis Association, for high school newspapers has been judged. This is a county, state and national contest endeavoring to alert young students to their responsibility for their own and their neighbors' health. Co-sponsors are the Illinois T.B. The Maroon and Gold Hi-Life, published in the White Hall local paper by the White Hall High school newspaper staff, has won first place in the county contest with an article written by Curtis Dikis on "Our School in the Fight Against T.B." Four issues of the paper were devoted to tuberculosis and were entered in the state contest.

This week Mrs. Dixie Kesinger, faculty adviser, has been notified that this entry has been one of the nine in the state to receive a Certificate of Honor and will be entered in the national contest.

Other state winners were Witt High School, Witt; Landsdowns Jr. High School, East St. Louis; Mascoutah High School, Mascoutah; Marissa High School, Marissa; East Pike High School, Milton; New Athens High School, New Athens.

JAPAN 17 HOURS FROM PARIS

PARIS (AP)—When Japan recently opened a tourist office here, the newspaper Le Monde said it wasn't surprising because "Japan is only 17 hours from Paris by a jet flight over the polar route—about the same length of time as a rail trip from Paris to Venice."

Legion Auxiliary Of Meredosia Meets Tuesday

MEREDOSIA—The Auxiliary of American Legion Post 516 held its February meeting in the basement of the new home Tuesday night. Seven members defied the weather to attend.

The president, Mrs. Oscar Nortrup, conducted the business session, during which it was decided to give ten dollars to the Heart Fund and five dollars to the Crusade for Freedom; to buy material and make curtains for the windows of the new building; taking its turn among the local organizations, to buy eye glasses for a needy child and to send an Easter gift to the boy the unit sponsors at Normal.

Mrs. Melvin Knack, Mrs. Russell Kunzeman and Mrs. Maurice Kunzeman will serve refreshments at the March meeting. Mrs. Don Grisham won the door prize of an article of veterans' crafts.

Cake, tea and coffee were served by Mrs. William Evans and Mrs. Grisham.

Sportsmen's Club

Thursday night the Meredosia Sportsmen's Club held its regular meeting in the clubhouse on the beach road, conducted by the president, Lloyd Lathrop. Snow and the possibility of drifted roads held attendance to eight members and three guests. Two of the guests were members of the Jacksonville Sportsmen's Club, Alfred Enke and Carl Bourne. The third guest came from Versailles.

Very little business needed attention. A check for seven dollars, bounty for foxes killed in the drive on January 24, had been received from the county commissioners and was immediately endorsed to the March of Dimes.

No film was shown. The one expected, "Highlights of Twenty Years of World Series," was to have been brought from Quincy by a booster of the newly organized Quincy Giants team.

Refreshment committee for the March 10 meeting is Harold Schroeder, Alvin Unland and Harry Pirtle. John Nortrup and Richard Owens served cherry pie with ice cream, coffee and soda.

Mrs. Floyd Hart, president, presided at the business session. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were given. Mrs. Clarence Nortrup read correspondence. It is hoped that all members will unite with other club women in the nation in a noon time prayer for peace.

The drapery committee reported the Civic Club has graciously accepted the new drapes for the front windows, and they hope to have the project near completion by the next meeting.

Mrs. Paul B. Smith reported on the recent serving of the Bluffs Civic Club. Mrs. Lyle Bates, chairman of the ways and means committee, assisted by Mrs. J. A. Knoeppel, Mrs. James Baird and Mrs. Helen Marsh, presented ideas for making money; the club voted to make cash contributions.

Mrs. Clarence Nortrup asked for cakes for the Band Boosters Carnival to be used in the cake walk. Mrs. Donald Merris will represent the club in selecting the students to attend the Egyptian Music camp this summer. A letter was read naming the articles to be collected this month for the Jacksonville State Hospital.

The main business of the afternoon was the election of officers, with the following elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Floyd Hart, re-elected; Mrs. Donald Mullen, re-elected vice-president; secretary, Mrs. Paul B. Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Clarence Nortrup, re-elected, and treasurer, Mrs. Richard Mains.

House coats for both mother and daughter, casual dresses, dressy print dresses, shorts, slacks, jackets, cobbler apron, maternity dress, boy's suit, little girl's dresses and a beautiful formal were worn by Mrs. Leroy Freesen, Mrs. Wilbur Mathews, Mrs. Leland Littig, Mrs. Jack Barnett, Mrs. Howard Six, Linda Merriman, Barbara Freesen, Cindy Six and Craig Prunty.

Mrs. Dean Merriman was narrator, and Mrs. Wendell Brackett played background music. The trimmings were by William E. Wright & Sons Co., and Putnam Dyes were used in the dying.

Mrs. Clarence Nortrup presented the special music feature. The women joined in singing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Miss Mary Ann Traw presented two piano solos. Craig Brown, with recorded "Add - a - part" accompaniment, played two trumpet solos.

The hostesses, Mrs. Robert Bailey, Mrs. Herbert Boes, Mrs. Jane Woodson and Mrs. Florence Brackett, served refreshments of cherry salad, assorted crackers, nutmeats, mints, coffee and tea from a table centered with a potted kalenchoe with matching candles in silver.

Mrs. Woodson poured coffee, and Mrs. Brackett poured the tea. The table was covered with a lace over red cloth. The president's table was adorned with a large red candle.

During the social period a Valentine exchange for Sunshine Friends was held, in charge of Mrs. J. A. Knoeppel.

Virginia High Sweetheart Dance Held At School

VIRGINIA—Saturday night, in the gym at the Virginia High School, the annual "Sweetheart Dance" sponsored by the F.H.A. was held and was well attended. A false ceiling of red and white crepe paper made an attractive decoration and added a cozy appearance to the scene.

The red and white color scheme was carried out as a Valentine motif. A white fence extended out from the throne and a number of cupids were seated on the fence. Red and white paper hearts were used as a wall border and a large heart made of chicken wire and stuffed and covered with red and white crepe paper was extended from the center of the ceiling.

Miss Jean Booth, Virginia high school senior, was chosen Sweetheart. She was lovely in a white nylon formal. She is one of a family of ten girls. Sharon Martin, last year's Sweetheart crowned the new Sweetheart.

Marie Leonhard, Chapter sister, carried a basket from which she dropped small hearts as she approached the throne. She was escorted by Paul Herzberger who carried the crown. The Sweetheart's gift was a gold heart-shaped locket and chain.

The Sweetheart's court and escorts were: Jean Booth escorted by Galen Kruse, senior candidate; Fern Hendricker and Dale Shafer, junior candidate; Kay Turner and Bob Walters, sophomore candidate; Sandra Lyons and Gerald Warden, freshman candidate. Each candidate and escort was given a corsage of carnations. Sharon Martin, last year's Sweetheart, was escorted by Gerald Bell.

F.H.A. president, Karen Braner, was mistress of ceremonies.

DOGGONE!

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP) — Police had to tug to get a thief to let go of his loot. A dog had swiped a 20-pound piece of frozen beef from a market. They finally retrieved the meat and returned it to the store.

Helping Heart Fund Collections Today

Student nurses from Passavant Hospital will be among the 600 volunteer workers calling at local homes as Jacksonville participates in the annual Community Heart Sunday today.

Mrs. Lucille Lair, Heart Sunday chairman, is shown above with four students receiving their kits for the drive. Left to right, Mrs. Lair; Judy Cooper of Murrayville; Ruth Hull of Pittsfield; Yvonne Helderman of White Hall and Carole Griffin of Virginia.

Solicitors will call at homes from 2 to 4 p. m. this afternoon, before reporting to the Drive headquarters, McCurdy Ford Agency, North Main street, for tabulations. Each solicitor will call at approximately 20 homes. Envelopes are provided for donations.

With The Girl Scouts

Two big events head the Girl Scout calendar for this week — the cookie workshop and the International Fair. The cookie workshop is to be held Tuesday, March 1, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at First Presbyterian church in this city and is for all cookie chairmen—troop, school and community. This is the only meeting to be held regarding the cookie sale which begins March 18. At this time complete instructions will be given each chairman, materials will be distributed for the sale and, in addition, a craft workshop will be presented by Mrs. Eva Anderson, cookie representative, showing how Girl Scout troops can use cookie boxes and cartons and other items in interesting ways. If you are unable to attend, be sure to send a representative in your place.

Help At Fair

Forty-two Junior high and Senior high Girl Scouts will be helping in the International Fair on Saturday, March 5, at Jonathan Turner Junior High school. The girls, who will work in shifts, are members of Troop 1 of which Mrs. R. Y. Roye, Jr., is leader; Troop 13, Mrs. Robert Hemphill, leader; Troop 27, Mrs. Ralph Sullivan, leader; and Troop 63, Mrs. Howard Choate, leader.

Thanks are due the troop leaders who so willingly brought in samples of service crafts which their troops have been doing during the year. These samples will be taken to a district meeting of hospital auxiliaries for an exchange of ideas.

A quantity of socks are available for sock puppets if any troops are interested. A sample sock puppet is on display in the office. Call for more information.

Two well-attended workshops were held last week at the Scout office. On Tuesday, the last film presentation entitled "Leathercraft" was given and following the film the group made simple designs for various leather objects using scraps sent by a shoe company.

On Wednesday, from noon to 1:45 p.m. Miss Carol Van Tassel, a student at MacMurray College, presented a very successful workshop on "Music and Dancing." The group learned a number of songs and rounds as well as several group dance routines for troops. Sixteen leaders were present.

Jacksonville Neighborhood leaders met Thursday morning at the Scout office for a regular session. Troop activities were discussed.

International Tea

On Friday morning members of the Program and Public Relations committees met in joint session to formulate plans for a Girl Scout International Tea to be held on Saturday, March 12, the Girl Scout birthday, from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. at the Strawn Art Gallery. Senior Scouts of Troop 1 will be hostesses and special guests will be persons in our community who are natives of other countries. This will include college students both at MacMurray and Illinois colleges, doctors and nurses at the State Hospital, as well as Our Saviour's and Passavant hospitals, foreign-born mothers of Girl Scouts and anyone else in the community who would like to visit with persons of his or her country or other countries.

There will be an exhibit of paintings at the Art Home during the International Tea and also a program will be presented by Mrs. Frank F. McCarthy, Senior Scouts who met girls of other countries at Roundup, and perhaps there will be a short resume of Girl Guiding in England.

Neighborhood meetings during the month of March will have a program on "Dolls and Puppets," presented by Mrs. Hartman.

Other events scheduled for this week at the Scout office include a meeting of the Camp committee to be held at 9:45 a.m. on Wednesday and a meeting of the Program committee at 10 a.m. on Friday.

All troops are urged to participate in Girl Scout Week exhibits. Members of the Public Relations committee are arranging for windows for these displays and troop leaders are asked to call the Scout office for assignment of windows. Let's show the public the fine program activities Girl Scouts are engaged in.

Troop Activities

Girl Scout Troop 33, with Mrs. Frank Clay and Mrs. Jack Spangenberg, leaders, visited the New Method Book Bindery on Morton avenue on Feb. 23. The girls enjoyed the tour and found it quite interesting. They were met by one of the plant's employees and were given a booklet explaining the various stages of book processing.

In February the girls of Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 27 made 120 Valentine favors for Passavant Hospital. They were little hearts with small candy cups in the center. The cups were filled with wrapped candy, some chocolates and some mints.

In March some of the girls in the troop are planning a program to be given for the Jacksonville Kiwanis club and later a program for Rotary club. The dates are March 3 and March 11. On March 5th the girls will be helping at the International Fair to be held at Jonathan Turner school. Also the troop is planning to take a six weeks' nursing course, sponsored by the Red Cross. Toni Roger, reporter.

We have found a use for clean, appropriate, used comic books. Would leaders be willing to ask their Scouts to bring to them or to the Scout office their used comic books? So many comic books are read and thrown away. Comic books brought to the office will be re-distributed for a worthy cause.

Requests for three Brownie uniforms in sizes 7, 8 and 10 have been received at the office. Anyone having a uniform to sell is asked to notify a troop leader or the office.

We are a United Fund agency.

Poppy Seed Cake

The next time you are looking for a really different cake recipe, try this Poppy Seed Cake because you will find it delightful in every way: from the feathery light texture of the cake, to the Custard Filling, to the rich Chocolate Frosting. Best of all, a cake such as this is easy to make and yet it has all the characteristics of a great cake. It is a white cake, making use of only egg whites, but the Custard Filling uses an equal number of egg yolks, so the cake and filling really belong together.

To be great a cake should have a tender crumb, and a feathery light texture and appealing flavor: lard is outstanding in its shortening power, and cakes made with lard are tender, light, delicate of texture. The poppy seeds add a very interesting and unusual flavor and if you have never used them in baking, this is your chance to do so.

Add ½ cup poppy seeds to 1 cup milk and let soak in the refrigerator overnight. Line two 9-inch layer cake pans with waxed paper. Then sift together 2½ cups sifted enriched flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, and ½ teaspoon salt. Cream 2/3 cup lard and gradually add ¾ cup sugar and continue creaming until light and fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with the poppy seed mixture. Beat 4 egg whites until frothy, adding ½ cup sugar gradually to egg whites, beating until stiff. Fold the beaten egg white-sugar mixture into the batter and add 1 teaspoon vanilla; pour into cake pans and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. When the layers have cooled, spread Custard Filling between them. Prepare the filling by mixing together 6 tablespoons flour, 1 cup sugar, and ¼ teaspoon salt. Stir in 4 beaten egg yolks and 2 cups milk. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Cool. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla and stir in 2/3 cup chopped pecans if desired. Make the Chocolate Frosting by creaming ¼ cup butter or margarine together with 3½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar. Add 3 tablespoons milk and 1 square of chocolate, melted. Beat until blended and spread over the top and sides of cake.

THEY HAVE YOUR SHOPPING NUMBER—It's no wonder to the marketing experts that you come home from shopping with more than you expected to buy. Some 70 per cent of purchases are buying decisions made in the supermarket. That, and other data depicted, above, results from over 4,600 interviews involving nearly 64,000 purchases by customers in some 225 supermarkets. Because nearly 70 per cent of America's food shopping is done through supermarkets today, the survey gives food for thought to shoppers generally. Sixth survey of its type made in 25 years, it reflects the growth of the supermarket: in 1949 some 13,000 units did an 8½-billion-dollar business. In 1959, about 29,000 stores of that type totaled some 35 billion dollars in sales. Data from DuPont magazine.

Special guests at the meeting were Jule Bohn of Springfield, past district governor of Rotary International. Herb Thompson of Chicago was a guest of Lou Dean, and Jerry Jones was a guest of Jim McConnell.

Three Survivors Describe Air Collision Between Brazilian Airliner, U.S. Plane

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — "There was a whoomph—like a muffled roar. I was sprayed with shattered glass. I looked and saw one minute air, one minute sea, and one minute land. We were going down into what seemed like an eternity.

"I wondered where we would hit. I knew we'd have a chance if it were the sea. I prayed."

Lt. (j.g.) George Fitzgibbons, 25, of Worcester, Mass., sat on a Navy hospital bed Friday night and gave that description of the air collision between a U.S. Navy plane and a Brazilian airliner over Rio de Janeiro's Guanabara Bay.

Sixty-one died in the disaster Thursday. Three survived.

Fitzgibbons told how the plane's tail hit the water and he got out along with Air Ordnanceman Hal Halenza, 33, and Sonarman Fred Wilson, 22.

The three Navy men and one other person were in the tail section as it descended in a slow spiral near the sheer rock face of Rio's famed Sugarloaf Mountain.

The fourth man didn't make it out of the plane after it hit the water. The three survivors declined to identify him.

Fitzgibbons said: "After we got out, Wilson and I got to him—the fourth man. He was half praying and half screaming. He was incoherent but I heard him say: 'My leg is caught.'

'He must have been still strapped in his seat, too. We pulled on him but we could not get him. The tail started to sink and he went under with it.

'We had to shove off so we would not get pulled under with it. But a Brazilian rescue craft drew in and a diver went down after him. They got him up and he was in bad shape. He died later they told me."

Halenza, who has a wife and two children in Norfolk, Va., and Wilson, of Dallas, Tex., said their group had just finished playing pinochle and were getting ready to land when the accident happened.

Six men had been riding in the tail section of the plane—all facing toward the rear as is customary in military passenger planes.

The three survivors said they did not hear the Brazilian airliner.

"I thought the window had blown out because I was showered with glass," Fitzgibbons said.

Halenza said: "I thought the cargo door had blown open because I felt this rush of air coming in."

"I just knew something had happened," Wilson put in.

They said they turned around and saw the tail had broken away from the plane.

"Most of the Navy bandsmen were up front and most were asleep because they had a tough schedule," Fitzgibbons continued.

He said that if it weren't for the fact that they had seat belts on they would have been thrown out into space.

When the tail section hit the water Fitzgibbons had trouble getting out because his shoulder was badly bruised and he could barely move his arm.

"The tail hit the water with the ripped end first. That forced in enough air to keep it afloat about five minutes," he said.

"I could not get my seat belt unfastened because my arm hurt badly. Then Wilson and Hal kicked over the seat and gave me a tug and at the same time I got the seat belt unfastened.

"Then we went after the other fellow but it was hopeless."

The three men climbed aboard the Brazilian rescue craft and walked to an ambulance. Later that night President Eisenhower and President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil came to see them.

"Eisenhower looked badly shaken and very concerned," Fitzgibbons said. "I think it kind of spoiled his South American visit a little. He certainly was glad to see us and we certainly were glad to see him."

Speedometer Check

A State Police squad car with a huge speed indicator mounted on top so motorists can check their speedometer readings, has arrived in the city and will be here for the next few days. William H. Morris, Supt. of the Illinois State Police, is making this car available for a visit to areas throughout the state to offer residents an opportunity to check the accuracy of their speedometers. State Trooper Charles F. Graul, who is driving the car, said the kingsized speedometer is calibrated so it shows the exact speed at which the car is traveling. In addition, it seems to remind drivers to stay within the state speed limit of 65 miles per hour.

Roodhouse Churches Plan For World Day Of Prayer

ROODHOUSE — The World Day of Prayer service will be held at the Methodist church on Friday, March 4, 1960, from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. with four churches cooperating: the Christian, Emmanuel Baptist, First Baptist and Methodist churches.

The theme for the World Day of Prayer service this year is "Laborers Together With God," and it was prepared by the Women's Inter Church Council of Canada.

Every year women from some particular country are responsible for preparing the order of service for the World Day of Prayer. The call to prayer this year is from different racial groups showing that we are one in Christ, and how little language and race separate us in the expression of our Christian faith.

1:30 Service

The church bells will ring at 12:00 o'clock noon on March 4 serving as a reminder of the World Day of Prayer service. If anyone finds it impossible to attend the 1:30 p.m. service, please pause for a moment or two to offer prayer to God, the Father of us all, thanking Him for our many blessings and asking His guidance in the doing of His will in our lives and in the lives of our brothers around the world.

A cordial invitation is extended to all the people in Roodhouse and in the Roodhouse area to come to the Methodist church on March 4 from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. and be a part of the world-wide fellowship of prayer. Great things can be accomplished through sincere combined prayer.

Students at Brown's Business College, Jacksonville, met at Hamilton's Cafe in Jacksonville Tuesday at 1:00 p.m. for a luncheon and social hour. Attending from Roodhouse were the following: Dennis Moulton, Alice Edwards, Joe Turner, Hope Spencer, and Wanda Eviland.

PARTNERS ARE NEVER RIGHT

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Writen for NEA Service

"When better defensive plays are made, I'll make them," said the unlucky expert. "But it won't do me any good. My partner will be there to nullify them."

The unlucky expert had every right to sound a trifle bitter. He had opened the king of spades and shifted to the queen of clubs. This club shift should have beaten the hand and was the only lead that could beat it, but as the unlucky expert said, his partner was there to fix him.

South drew trumps and tried the diamond finesse. It lost to East's king and then all East needed to do was lead a low club to let his partner in, but East had no desire to play partnership defense. He cashed his king of clubs and had no spade to lead. South got rid of his last three spades on dummy's diamonds.

I can't blame the unlucky expert for being aggrieved. His shift to the queen of clubs at trick two had been brilliant indeed.

East Pike No Match For Relentless Bluffs Attack-Likes Gets 34

CHAMBERSBURG—With Henry Likes scoring 34 points, Burl Fargo 19 and Harold Kund 18 tallies, East Pike was no match for the stronger Bluffs Bluejays here Friday night in the finals of the Meredosia - Chambersburg District Tournament.

With the three players combining for 71 of Bluffs' 99 points, the Bluejays had little trouble in notching their 19th win of the year in the 99-53 verdict. Six other Bluejays also got into the scoring act.

The winners now advance to the Beardstown Regional to face Beardstown in an 8:30 contest Tuesday night.

Bluffs almost duplicated its 100-point output earlier in the season by collecting 31 field goals and 37 free throws.

The Milton lads of East Pike were no match for Bluffs under the boards and couldn't solve the Bluejays' weaving offense. Bob Ramsey gave another good account of himself with 18 points for the losers.

ISD TIGERS HAVE HIGH-ACT

Louie Edwards (left) and A. C. Parish of Coach Jim Bonds' Tigers give the Illinois Deaf quintet a 'high-act' under the boards against visiting fives. The two Chicago natives aren't really tall, Edwards is 6-2, and Parish is 5-8¾, but they give opposing big men a headache when it comes to board control. The spring-legged seniors have no trouble whatsoever of getting above the rim. The only thing they can't do with their 'high-act' is to dunk the ball. Both lad's hands are too small to get that necessary grip on the ball. Edwards is averaging 17 points a game while Parish holds a better than 14 point average.

Machen Stops Hunter In 9th

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Machen, the Redding, Calif., heavyweight, started the long road back Friday night when he stopped Billy Hunter of Detroit in 2:11 of the ninth round of a scheduled 10 in Madison Square Garden.

Machen, who weighed 196 to 191¾ for Hunter, had only one problem and he solved that in a hurry. For the first three rounds, he couldn't keep out of the way of the 25-year-old Hunter's left jab.

But once he took care of that little matter, he had things all his own way. It merely was a matter of how long Hunter would last. He was game to the end and still was standing when Referee Al Berl decided he had enough.

This was a "must" victory for Machen. After winning seven fights in a row last year, he dropped a decision to Zora Folley last month. He was developing a reputation of losing the big ones. He already had been knocked out by Ingemar Johansson in 1958 after running up 25 triumphs in a row They were the only defeats on his record.

Machen, No. 5 on the heavyweight list in the current National Boxing Assn. ratings, opened the ninth with a lurry of rights and lefts to the head.

Then he relaxed for a minute and took dead aim again with his powerful right. He battered Hunter into a neutral corner. But Hunter, from Detroit, refused to go down.

Again Machen took aim and crashed a right to Hunter's head right in Billy's corner. It was then that Berl stepped in to end the nationally televised bout.

Friday Night Cage Scores

Pittsfield 64 Jerseyville 53

PITTSFIELD — The Saukees came through with a sizzling 61% in the final quarter to clinch a win over Jerseyville Friday night as the Panthers fell before the rolling Pittsfield five by a 64-53 score.

Paced by Ernie Patton with 26 points for the game, the Saukees took the lead at the end of the first quarter and held onto it for the rest of the game, although they were challenged at the half as Jerseyville tied the score up at 25-all.

The second half of the game provided the action as a hard fighting Panther team tried hard to keep up with the Saukees, and pulled to within 2 points of the lead by the time the third quarter had rolled around, 43-41. However in the final quarter Pittsfield shot a tremendous game as they pulled into the lead and took the victory, 64-53.

Although Patton held the high point man spot of the game, the Panthers had a man pushing for the position in Heldie Gisy who made 24 points for the evening, 11 of which came in the 3rd quarter. Patton had his big quarter in the last one as he put 12 of his 26 markers through in this session, helping put Pittsfield in a high percentage position for the final canto. For the contest the Jerseyville squad hit 42% of their shots with the Saukees just barely outdoing them with 44%.

Havana 50 Western 43

HAVANA—Jack Hill's Havana five outplayed Western's Cardinals Friday night to rack up victory number 20 for the season with 6 blemishes and handing the Cardinals their 15th loss over 11 wins.

Paced by Terry Workman and Farrell Whalen with 14 and 13 points respectively, the Ducks took an early lead and did not have too much contention from the Cardinals, even though the Cardinals sneaked to within 4 points of the lead at the half. Randy Eaton played good ball for the Havana squad with a contribution of 10 tallies for the game. Workman and Eaton, both juniors, did not start the game, but came in during the second quarter to take over and pace the Duck five.

Dick Mercer led the scoring for the Cardinals with 12 tallies with fine even scoring from the rest of his teammates. The Western five had trouble getting off to a good start and fell behind in the opening quarter, and then found it impossible to overcome the slight lead built up by the Ducks in the third and final quarters. A difference in the shooting percentages also gave the Ducks a big margin as they shot 44% to the Cardinals 28%.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

Forewarned is forearmed, as they say, and you folks traveling on the night of March 31 are hereby warned that there will be a sudden knock on the door of your motel- or hotel-room, and you'll find a reporter asking your name and the names of any and all companions. But relax . . . it'll only be a census-taker taking census. And these questioners will hit not only hotels and motels, but hobo-camps, flop-houses, and gospel missions, too. The next day, a swarm of 160,000 fact-finders will hit the streets for a statistical lowdown on an estimated 180 million people. And just as it's been every 10 years since 1790, all the pencil brigade wants are the facts, Ma'am. They'll ask about ages, size of families, where you work, and other vital statistics. So don't be surprised when one comes knocking on your door . . . we're just coming to our census.

The local genius just dropped by with the Formula for Success . . . "Think up a product that costs a dime, sells for a dollar, and is habit-forming." The Formula for Success in the automobile business is just as simple: Buy used cars wisely, sell them at a reasonable profit, and provide good service. The money saved in buying wisely is passed on to you, the customer, in lower prices on the car you buy from us. And good service insures your coming back to us whenever you need repairs. Get your next used car from us. E. W. Brown, 406 South Main. Phone 5-4333.

THE BUSHWHACKERS

by FRANK GRUBER

THE STORY: Phil Bokker has been ordered to leave Raytown by the town marshal. However, Phil gets off the stage a mile out of town and makes his way back on foot toward the home of Bill Grayson, one man who might clear him of charges that he fought with guerrillas during the Civil War.

VI

Bokker was still standing there, when a revolver cracked. A man's scream split the night air, another gun banged and another. The dogs went into a veritable frenzy of barking.

Bokker was tearing the Navy gun from his waistband as the horse came galloping toward him. He took a step to the right, cried out, "Hold it!"

Flame and thunder lanced at Bokker. A bullet tore through his coat sleeve and he thrust out his Navy gun and fired. The horse coming directly at him was suddenly riderless.

Bokker searched the road for the man at whom he had fired. He saw him lying in a huddle, moved cautiously toward him.

"I've got you covered," he said carefully.

The figure on the ground did not move, made no response. Bokker knew that the man would not move again.

He got to his feet and went forward. The woman was still calling to the dogs, quieting them. When the racket finally died out, Bokker walked into the pale light cast by the light inside the house. He saw Bill Grayson lying on the ground and the woman came toward him, a carbine in her hands.

"Throw up your hands, you murderer!" she spat at him.

Bokker's hands went up.

The frightened voice of a Negro called from the house. "Y-you need me, Miz Grayson?"

"Yes," replied the woman grimly over her shoulder. She moved forward, thrust the muzzle of the carbine within a foot of Bokker's stomach. "Drop that gun!"

Bokker let his Navy gun clatter to the ground. "You're making a mistake," he protested. "I came here to talk to Captain Grayson. It wasn't me who shot him."

"You can tell that to the sheriff! Mose, tell Donny to ride into town and fetch out Sheriff Thomas, then find a rope and come back here."

Five minutes later, his hands tied tightly behind his back, Bokker was herded into the house by a giant Negro and the woman, who kept him covered with a rifle: the newly widowed Mrs. Grayson.

She was not more than 22, a fine-looking woman with hair the color of dark taffy. She was wearing a long robe over her underclothes, but in spite of the loose robe, Bokker could make out her figure. It was excellent.

She gestured with the gun to a chair. Bokker hesitated, then seated himself awkwardly.

Mose, who had taken possession of Bokker's Navy gun, sniffed at the muzzle. "Gun fired," he said laconically.

"I fired at the man who was with Captain Grayson," Bokker declared. "He came at me—shooting. Where's Captain Grayson's sister?"

Mrs. Grayson regarded Bokker carelessly for a moment, then her eyes narrowed. "Bill has—had—no sister."

Bokker nodded. "Then it was you who came to my hotel room this evening!"

Mrs. Grayson inhaled sharply. She took a sudden step toward him, her hand drawn back to slap him. Then she caught herself.

"I forgot—you're a Yankee."

Lige Thomas entered the Grayson kitchen 20 minutes later. Charr Mechem and another man were with him, and Bokker could hear several more outside.

Lige Thomas came up to where Bokker sat in the kitchen chair, his hands behind him. "So you got off the stage!"

His right fist flicked out and crashed against Bokker's jaw, knocking him and the chair to the floor. Bokker struggled up to his knees, licked away a trickle of blood that seeped from the corner of his mouth. Mechem stepped forward to smash Bokker again, but the sheriff gestured him back. "He's got to talk, Charr."

Bokker got to his feet. "It's easy enough to hit a man when his hands are tied."

"I can lick you any day of the week," growled Charr Mechem, "an' twice on Sunday."

Lige Thomas said, "You got a rough tongue, Bokker. Now, let's hear you use it to talk yourself out of this."

Bokker said, "I wanted to ask Captain Grayson some questions."

"You asked him enough in Raytown."

"I didn't get any answers."

Thomas scowled. "So now you got a murder against you."

"I didn't kill Grayson."

The sheriff turned to Mrs. Grayson. "You caught him with a gun in his hand?"

There was a slight hesitation before she answered. "Yes."

"There was a man with Captain Grayson," Bokker said doggedly. "And a third man was waiting for them outside the house."

"He's the one who shot Bill?" Thomas cried skeptically. "This third man?"

by DON SHUMAKER

Dialing through your TV channels some night, you might be startled by the following dialogue: "What happened to Ziggy?" "Ah, some mink was bugging him because he was empty, so he tried to dump a store. He layed iron on the man, tried to cop a duffy, and the fuzz grabbed him and put him in the glass house." Contrary to your first impression, this would not be accidental reception of a TV broadcast from outer space. What you'd be hearing is an example of authentic earth-language, underworld type, as interpreted by the producers of CBS-TV's "Tightrope!", Clarence Green and Russell Rouse.

For authenticity in the scripts for the underworld - background series, Green and Rouse did research on the language by talking to prisoners, parolees and police officers of six states. What they came up with is illustrated vividly above. It translates into English like this: "Ah, some beautiful-girl - with - expensive - tastes (mink) was driving him crazy (bugging him) because he had no money (was empty), so he tried to rob (dump) a store. He used a gun (layed iron) on the man, tried to get away (cop a duffy), and the police (fuzz) grabbed him and put him in the Los Angeles City Jail (the glass house)." Any questions? If there are questions in your home about when you're going to discard that old-fashioned, small screen TV for a new set, why not answer them with a brand-new, big screen RCA Victor. At Shumaker TV & Appliances we are proud to feature this line with its modern electronic engineering and beautiful decorator cabinets. For quality and dependability RCA is tops. Come in soon for an interesting demonstration. SHUMAKER TV AND APPLIANCES, 222 East State Street. Phone 5-6595.

QUICK RESULTS

ZIONSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — M. L. Barrett ran a classified ad in the Zionsville Times, seeking swarms of bees for four vacant hives he had. One morning he checked the hives and found a swarm of bees had moved into one of them. They didn't say whether they had read the ad.

A rare cookbook of 1792 in Michigan State University Library recommends that American housewives save money by making meatless gravy of beer, water, sliced onion, spices.
